NOTIFICATION.—The 1st April 1864.—The following Notification issued by the Government of India, Financial Department, is re-published for general information :—

No. 1523.—The 19th March 1864.—The following Despatch from the Secretary of State for India is published for general information :—

From Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council, (Financial),—No. 20, dated 9th February 1864.

SIR,—I HAVE considered in Council your Financial letter dated the 13th October 1863, No. 127, forwarding a Memorial from certain Uncovenanted Officers at your Presidency requesting an interpretation of paragraphs 21 to 25 of my Financial Despatch dated the 8th December 1862, No. 205, which relate to the limitation of Pensions to Uncovenanted Servants to £500 per annum.

2. In the letter from your Government dated the 6th August 1862, No. 111, you stated that the Uncovenanted Service "cannot claim to have any rights, under the Rules of 1831, beyond what may be considered to arise out of the general pledge which those rules may be taken to give, that a member of that service, when rendered incapable of further duty, shall not be discharged without some pensionary support. As regards the amount of pension to be given, the rules merely fix a limit which is not to be exceeded, and although it has, with rare exceptions, been the practice to allow the highest pension of which the rules allow, this practice cannot be admitted to confer on the Uncovenanted Service any right to claim that maximum in all cases without any regard whatever to the original design and scope of the rules."

3. In that view Her Majesty's Government fully concurred. It was therefore decided that Uncovenanted Servants appointed prior to the 19th May 1855, (the date of the Court's Despatch limiting pensions to £500 per annum,) whose average salary during the last five years of their service shall have exceeded Rupees 10,000 per annum, and also those who were promoted prior to the 6th August 1862 (the date of the letter from the Government of India relative to the limitation of Pensions to Uncovenanted Servants) to offices to which salaries exceeding Rupees 10,000 per annum are attached, shall, if their average salary during the last five years of their service exceed that amount, be allowed, "in cases of extraordinary merit," Pensions exceeding £500 per annum, the amount of excess to be governed by the merits and services of the retiring servant, and to be limited to an amount consistent with a due regard to the public interests. In regard to Uncovenanted Servants who have rendered approved services of only an ordinary character the pension must in no case exceed £500 per annum.

4. An Uncovenanted Servant promoted subsequently to the 6th August 1862 to an office to which a salary exceeding Rupees 10,000 per annum is attached is not to be granted an increased pension in consequence of the increase to his salary.

I have the honor to be, &c.,
(Signed) C. WOOD.

Extension of Western Mole at Genoa.

Information has been received at the Admiralty that in consequence of the works now in progress for extending the outer or western mole at Genoa, it is dangerous for vessels to pass close to the extremity of the mole.

If entering the Port by night vessels should keep at least three-quarters of a cable eastward of the light on the western mole, as, owing to the unfinished state of the works, that light is at present 100 yards from its extremity.

BANK OF BENGAL,

12TH MARCH 1864.

NOTIFICATION.

IT is hereby notified that as the present Capital of the Bank is insufficient to meet its requirements, in consequence of the increase of business, principally arising from the establishment of Branches subordinate to the Bank in various parts of the Bengal Presidency, the Directors have determined, under the authority vested in them by Section 6, Act IV. of 1862, to increase the Capital from one crore, nine lacs, ninety thousand, nine hundred and nine Rupees, to two crores and twenty lacs, by the issue of new Shares or consolidated Stock under the following conditions :—

1*st.*—Holders of old Shares will be entitled to claim new Shares at par, in the proportion of one Share for every Share of which they may be registered as Proprietors in the Books of the Bank. Registered Proprietors of consolidated Stock will, in like manner, be entitled to an equivalent amount of new Stock at par.

2*nd.*—Holders of Shares or Stock, whether in India or elsewhere, shall be allowed to the 15th day of August 1864 to claim the new issue. The New Zealand Industrial Exhibition of 1865.

From ALFRED ECCLES, ESQ., Honorary Secretary to the New Zealand Industrial Exhibition of 1865, to the Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, Calcutta,—(dated the 24th November 1863.)

I HAVE the honor to transmit, for the information of the Calcutta Chamber of Commerce, a copy of the Letters Patent (extracted from the New Zealand Gazette) appointing, in the name of Her Majesty, a Commission for the purpose of devising and carrying out an Exhibition at Dunedin of the Industrial products and manufactures of New Zealand and such products and manufactures of other countries as shall, in the opinion of the Commissioners, be eminently calculated to be useful in the development of the Colony.

Copies of the various documents as yet issued by the Commissioners are also sent herewith, by which you will perceive that Mr. John Morrison, Adelaide Place, London Bridge, the Agent for the General Government of New Zealand, has been requested to act as London Agent for the Exhibition.

The Commissioners are very anxious to secure such a collection of machines, appliances, &c., fitted for colonial use as shall adequately represent the great progress made of late years in Great Britain, the United States, and elsewhere, in the invention and adaptation of machinery, &c., to increase production and economize labor. They are also very desirous to receive for exhibition articles manufactured elsewhere from New Zealand produce, as well as such manufactures or raw produce of other countries as may be useful for the purposes of comparison or introduction here.

Impressed with a strong sense of the enterprise and liberality of British Merchants and Manufacturers they appeal to the Calcutta Chamber of Commerce to aid them in obtaining for the Exhibition such articles and machines as shall worthily represent the industry of your District, and also be calculated to aid in the development of this country.

The Commissioners are strongly of opinion that such Exhibitions are not only very useful means of increasing and developing trade, but also promote the growth of large interests, which in themselves materially strengthen that feeling of attachment between Great Britain and her Colonies in which they recognize the surest guarantee for the power, happiness, and welfare of the whole Empire.

NEW ZEALAND EXHIBITION, 1865.

"It is a noble thing to test by actual experiment to what extent the ingenuity and skill of the nations of the earth have corresponded to the intentions of their Creator, and to improve the advantages which each country can offer the other in supplying the wants and adding to the happiness of mankind."—Sir Robert Peel.

THE advantages which Industrial Exhibitions have conferred upon the commerce of the world since they were first instituted a century ago are well acknowledged. In Great Britain, France, the United States, and other countries, whatever their political condition, so highly have such Exhibitions been esteemed, that all Governments, however otherwise hostile, have agreed in encouraging and supporting them.

National at first, they occasioned a generous emulation amongst individuals; and afterwards, when international amongst people. Affording a worthy theatre for the display of the enormous resources which a bountiful Providence has provided and human enterprise collected from all parts of the earth, they have increased production and thereby added to the world's wealth. They have afforded also a most valuable because more exact knowledge of man's resources; they have encouraged manufactures and art; have stimulated invention and design; have lent labor, dignity, and genius illustration.

It is not to be supposed that in a new country their influence can actually be as great as in an old one; but, relatively, it should be greater. If the colonists of New Zealand have fewer necessities than inhabitants of older and more luxurious countries, and can supply them in many instances better from abroad than on the spot, it is equally true that they know very little of the resources the Colony affords, and that they do not even yet make use of many with which they are well acquainted. They have splendid coal-fields, yet are dependent for coals on other countries; with the best limestone they import almost all their lime; they even get building-stone from Tasmania and Sydney, and bricks from England and Victoria; with immense forests of splendid timber they import most of their woods of construction whether for building or furniture, and with the strongest known vegetable fibre in their flax they have not yet turned it to valuable account. Doubtless the youth of the Colony and the consequent dearness of labor occasions much of this, but in order to obviate that difficulty it is necessary that they should avail themselves of all those aids which machinery to economise labor in the production and conversion of raw material may afford them.

To these ends the New Zealand Exhibition, 1865, has been projected. It will be distinguished by not only including every indigenous product and manufacture, but all those obtainable from other countries which shall be calculated to aid in the development of the Colony. Should the enterprise be successful it must greatly increase the wealth and the internal and external trade of the country. That it may be so needs but the active sympathy of the whole community.

His Excellency the Governor has cordially supported the Exhibition by the issue of a Commission under the Great Seal, and using his best offices to secure the patronage of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, as well as promising his own.

The General Government has warmly supported the project in advising His Excellency to grant the Commission and by promising to place a sum on the Estimates in aid of its funds.

Four successive Governments in Otago have each accorded it their cordial approbation, and the Provincial Council of Otago have shewn their support by providing a building to receive the principal portion of the Exhibition and voting £4,000 in aid of its general expenses.

Beyond this Government support the Commissioners have received from many public-spirited persons subscriptions to a Guarantee Fund, amounting altogether to a large and yet daily increasing sum. They have also received valuable aid from the colonial Press.

It remains then only for the public throughout New Zealand to evince their hearty appreciation of the project by encouraging by every means in their power the production of New Zealand articles suitable for exhibition, and aiding the Commissioners in obtaining from abroad machines and other things calculated to aid in the development of the Colony.

Through the agency of Juries rewards will be distributed by the Commissioners, and it will be especially their object to recognize the merit of new products and new manufactures or the material improvement of established articles of New Zealand produce or manufacture. The reports of the Juries, containing brief statements of the grounds of their several awards, will be published. Similar rewards will be distributed among the exhibitors from countries beyond New Zealand.

In the presence of a knowledge of the vast public and other works about to be executed in the Colony, the Commissioners are making arrangements to institute a series of experiments, under skilled superintendence, to determine the strength, durability, &c., of such materials used for construction in New Zealand as have not already been reported on by competent authority.

The Commissioners also propose that a series of essays, by gentlemen conversant with the history of New Zealand and each Province, the meteorology, geology, mineralogy, gold and other mining, flora indigenous and exotic, fauna, native and acclimatised, trade, vital and other statistics, &c., of the Colony shall be prepared and published. They hope also to be enabled to arrange that a considerable selection from the New Zealand objects shall be secured by Government for permanent exhibition in London, so as to give the best proof that this Colony affords ample field for the investment of capital, labor, and scientific skill.

Primary, then, as the Commissioners consider the object of securing the fullest representation of New Zealand, they also desire to obtain from other countries such a collection of machinery fitted for colonial use as has hitherto not been seen south of the Line; and they trust that the machinists of Great Britain, the United States, and other countries will avail themselves of this Exhibition as an admirable means of shewing to southern colonial communities the extraordinary strides made of late years in devising machines to economise labor, in reclaiming and cultivating land, converting raw material, and facilitating transport. As steam power will be provided by the Commissioners many of the machines will be exhibited in motion. Facilities will also be afforded for the trial of the various agricultural and horticultural implements exhibited.

The Commissioners further desire to obtain from all other countries manufactures from New Zealand produce, to shew in what particular it is chiefly valuable, and where defective it might be improved; also such raw produce as shall be useful, either for comparison with New Zealand objects of similar character, or as examples of the direction in which the development of the Colony may tend.

The classification of the International Exhibition of 1862 has, with slight modification as to gold mining and aboriginal objects, been adopted; and though the Commissioners claim to be but humble followers of their great precedent they hope to see all of the classes well represented.

In each Province a Local Committee will be appointed by the Superintendent, whose duties are defined in memoranda transmitted to their Honors, and through whom alone the Commissioners will communicate with New Zealand Exhibitors.

The Agent in London for the New Zealand Government, Mr. John Morrison, Adelaide Place, London Bridge, has been requested to act as the Agent in Europe for the Commissioners, and to him any one to whom it is more convenient to write to London than direct to the Secretary at Dunedin may apply.

Correspondents will be appointed also in Melbourne, Sydney, Adelaide, Queensland, and Hobart Town.

The Commissioners have only to add that they are deeply sensible of the responsibility of the duties they have undertaken, and again to express their earnest desire to secure the hearty support of all classes of their fellow colonists: they confidently believe that the Exhibition will develope the resources of New Zealand, and, whilst increasing our own confidence in them, make them widely known to others; will create and foster manufacturing industry; encourage mining and agriculture; diffuse knowledge, and improve our communications both by land and sea. They trust that the great work may be a great success, and assist to raise New Zealand to a place worthy of her climate, position, and resources. To accomplish so great a public good, whilst sparing no effort of their own, they rely on the blessing of Him from whom all things come and without whom is nothing.

By Order,

ALFRED ECCLES,
Honorary Secretary.

(b) No exhibitor will receive more than one certificate in any class or sub-class.

(c) A jury will be formed for each class of the Exhibition, by whom the certificates will be adjudged, subject to generel rules, which will regulate the action of the juries.

(d) The jurors will be chosen by the Commissioners.

(e) The names of all the jurors will be published in January 1865.

(f) The juries will be required to submit their awards with a brief statement of the grounds of each to the Commissioners before the tenth day of March 1865.

(g) The awards will be published in the Exhibition building at a public ceremony.

(h) They will immediately afterwards be conspicuously attached to the counters of the successful exhibitors, and the grounds of each award will be very briefly stated.

(i) If an exhibitor accepts the office of juror, no certificate can be awarded in the class to which he is appointed, either to himself individually or to the firm in which he may be a partner.

(j) The certificates will be delivered to the exhibitors on the last day of the Exhibition.

12. Prices may be affixed to articles exhibited.

13. The Commissioners will be prepared to receive all articles which may be sent to them on or after the first day of October, and will continue to receive goods until the twelfth day of December 1864, inclusive.

14. Articles of great size or weight, the placing of which will require considerable labor, must be sent before the twenty-first day of November 1864; and manufacturers wishing to exhibit machinery or other objects that will require foundations or special constructions must make a declaration to that effect in their demands for space, which demand the Commissioners must receive at least three months previous to the day of opening.

15. Any exhibitor whose goods can properly be placed together will be at liberty to arrange them in his own way, provided his arrangement is compatible with the general scheme of the Exhibition and the convenience of other exhibitors.

16. Where it is desired to exhibit the process of manufacture a sufficient number of articles however dissimilar will be admitted for the purpose of illustrating the process, but they must not exceed the number actually required.

26. Exhibitors will be required to deliver their goods at such part of the building as may be indicated to them, with the freight, carriage, portcrage, and all charges and dues upon them paid.

27. The drays will be unloaded and the articles and packages taken to the places appointed in the building by the Officers of the Commissioners.

28. Upon receipt of notice from the Commissioners that the articles are deposited in the building, exhibitors or their representatives, or agents must themselves unpack, put together, and arrange their goods. Persons will be appointed by the Commissioners who may be employed by exhibitors for this purpose at their own cost and risk.

29. Packing cases must be removed at the cost of the exhibitors or their agents as soon as the goods are examined and deposited in charge of the Commissioners. If not removed within three days of notice being given, they will be disposed of, and the proceeds (if any) applied to the funds of the Exhibition.

30. Regulations will be adopted by the principal Steam Companies and others trading to Dunedin, with the view of affording facilities for the conveyance of goods to and from the Exhibition.

35. As a general rule no counters or fittings will be provided by the Commissioners. Exhibitors will be permitted, subject only to the necessary general regulations, to erect to their own taste all the counters, stands, glass frames, brackets, awnings, hangings, or similar contrivances which they may consider best calculated for the display of their goods.

36. Exhibitors, or their representatives, should provide whatever light temporary covering may be necessary (such as sheets of oiled calico) to protect their goods from dust; and, in the case of machinery and polished goods, should make the requisite arrangements for keeping the articles free from rust during the time of the exhibition.

43. Exhibitors must be at the charge of insuring their own goods should they desire this security. Every precaution will be taken to prevent fire, theft or other losses, and the Commissioners will give all the aid in their power for the legal prosecution of any persons guilty of robbery or wilful injury in the Exhibition; but they will not be responsible for losses or damage of any kind which may be occasioned by fire or theft, or in any other manner.

44. Exhibitors may employ assistants (male or female) to keep in order the articles they exhibit, or to explain them to visitors, after obtaining written permission from the Commissioners; but such assistants will be forbidden to invite visitors to purchase the goods of their employers.

50. Articles once deposited in the building will not be permitted to be removed without written permission from the Commissioners.

[51—54.]

55. The Commissioners will provide shafting, steam, (not exceeding 30 lbs. per inch,) or water at high pressure for machines in motion.

56. Persons who may wish to exhibit machinery in motion will be allowed to have it worked as far as practicable under their own superintendence and by their own men.

[57—69.]

70. Intending exhibitors in New Zealand are requested to apply without delay to the Provincial Committees of their respective Provinces for a Form of Demand for space, stating at the same time in which of the four sections they wish to exhibit.

71. The following is the form which has to be filled up:—

1. Name and christian name of applicant (or name of firm.)
2. Nature of business carried on.
3. Exact address (stating post town and province or country.)
4. Nature of articles to be exhibited.

[72—99.]

100. Exhibitors from countries beyond New Zealand should make their demands for space to the Agent in Great Britain, or direct to the Secretary at Dunedin.

101. The Commissioners will consider those persons to be the Provincial Committees in New Zealand who have been appointed by the respective Superintendents, and will only communicate with exhibitors through such Committees. The Commissioners will appoint an Agent in Great Britain.

102. The Commissioners will communicate to such Committees the amount of space which can be allowed to the Province for which they act, and will also state the further conditions and limitations which may from time to time be decided on with respect to the admission of articles. All articles forwarded by such Committees will be admitted provided they do not require a greater aggregate amount of space than that assigned to the Province from which they come; and provided also that they do not violate the general conditions and limitations. Subject to Decision 4 it will rest with the Committee of each Province to decide upon the merits and suitability for exhibition of the articles from that Province. A communication will also be made to the Agent in Great Britain, assigning a definite amount of space to the United Kingdom, and to the several foreign countries exhibitors for which may correspond with him. The Agent will have powers similar to those of the Provincial Committees as to the selection of articles proposed for exhibition.

103. Separate space will, if possible, be allotted to each Province of New Zealand within which the Committee for that Province will be at liberty to arrange the productions entrusted to them in such manner as they think best, subject to the condition that all machinery shall be exhibited in the portion of the building specially devoted to that purpose and all pictures as the Commissioners may direct, and to the observance of any general rules that may be laid down by the Commissioners for public convenience.

104. By arrangements made with the New Zealand Government all foreign or colonial goods intended for exhibition, sent and addressed in accordance with the regulations laid down by Her Majesty's Collector of Customs as set forth in Article 108, will be admitted into the country and allowed to be transmitted to the Exhibition building without being previously opened, and without payment of any duty. But all goods which shall not be re-exported at the termination of the Exhibition will be charged with the proper duties under the ordinary Customs' Regulations.

106. Every article sent separately, and every package must be legibly marked with the name of the country or colony of which it is the produce or manufacture, and, as far as practicable, with the name of the exhibitor or exhibitors.

107. The following is the form of address which should be adopted:—

To the Commissioners for the New Zealand Exhibition, 1865.

BUILDING, DUNEDIN, OTAGO,

N. Z.

From [state country and exhibitor's name.]

To prevent loss, miscarriage, or mislaying, articles or packing-cases containing them, which occupy less bulk than two cubic feet should not be sent separately if it can be avoided, but packages under such size containing, as far as possible, the same classes of articles should be transmitted in combination.

108. The Customs Authorities have laid down the following Regulations upon the importation of goods intended for the Exhibition:—

(a) All packages containing goods for the New Zealand Exhibition of 1865 shall be specially reported as such, and shall be addressed to the Commissioners of the New Zealand Exhibition or to one of their Officers and be consigned to a duly accredited agent, and shall be accompanied with a specification of their contents and value. They shall be separately entered as intended for the New Zealand Exhibition, and the agents, in passing their entries, shall specify the full contents of the packages together with their value.

(b) Such packages as may be landed in Dunedin shall be forwarded unopened to the Exhibition in charge of an approved licensed drayman, accompanied by a dray note from the Landing Officer, giving a description of the packages and the numbers and marks thereon; and in cases where they may be supposed to contain other goods than those for the Exhibition they shall also be accompanied by a Revenue Officer.

(c) Packages landed at other ports shall be forwarded with a similar note by public conveyance under seals of office direct to the Exhibition, the Officers at the respective ports taking care that the packages bear no private address, and that the documents relating thereto be immediately forwarded to the proper Officers of the Customs stationed at the Exhibition.

(d) On the arrival of the goods at the Exhibition no package shall be opened without the knowledge and consent of the Officer of Customs, and if the goods be found to agree with the entry or specification they will, if free, be at once considered as out of charge of the Customs, the entry or declaration being sufficient for all statistical purposes.

(e) In the case of all dutiable goods an account will be taken by the Officers of the Customs at the time of first opening the packages, but such deficiencies as may occur within the building from any legitimate or unavoidable cause, the Officer being fully satisfied thereof, shall not be charged with duty.

(f) That the building be considered for all practical purposes a "Bonded Warehouse," and that in all cases where goods shall not be exported but retained for use in this country, the duty shall be assessed by the Officer in charge at the building (and received in the Exhibition by a clerk duly appointed for the purpose) in accordance with the practice now existing in regard to articles found in passengers' baggage.

(g) In the case of dutiable goods for exportation an entry will be passed in the long room and bond given for their due exportation; and on the receipt of this entry by the Officer in charge of the building the goods shall be packed in his presence, and if for shipment at any other port placed under seal and forwarded in charge of a steamboat or other public carrier; but if for shipment at Dunedin they shall then be sent under charge of Customs Officers at the expense of the exporter to be delivered into the charge of the searcher of the station from which they are to be shipped without further examination under the regulations applicable to goods shipped direct from the Warehouse.

109. An outline of the Patent Law of New Zealand is inserted for the information of exhibitors from a distance, but it is not the intention of the Commissioners to take any steps in reference to the protection of inventors or discoverers by patent or registration.

Under the "Patents Act," 1860—Any person being the originator of any new invention or improvement, for which no patent has been issued in New Zealand or any other country, may obtain letters patent after depositing £10 with the Colonial Treasurer, and at the Office a petition to the Governor, stating the object of his invention and praying for a patent.

The specification and drawings must be delivered in duplicate, with principle of machines, &c., explained, and specimens of ingredients, &c., if any, for purpose of experiment be delivered.

Notice to be published in the Gazette, and one newspaper in each Province, and after four months if no objection is lodged a patent may be issued; the holder to be entitled to the same privileges in New Zealand as patentee under the Great Seal in England. More than twelve persons may be interested in a patent. Patent may be assigned. The holder or assignee of letters patent obtained in Great Britain or other countries may obtain letters of registration, entitling the holder during continuance of the original patent in the country in which it was granted, and no longer, to all the privileges of letters patent granted in New Zealand on payment of £10 to the Colonial Treasurer.

DECISIONS SPECIALLY APPLICABLE TO

Section IV.—Fine Arts.

110. It is not proposed to award prizes in this Section.

Admission of Visitors.

[111—122]

123. The Commissioners have adopted the following regulations with respect to the admission of visitors to the Exhibition:—

(a) The Exhibition will be open daily (Sundays excepted) during such hours as the Commissioners shall from time to time appoint.

(b) There will be one principal entrance for visitors.

(c) The regulations necessary for preventing obstructions at the entrance will be issued prior to the opening.

(d) Admission to the exhibition will be given only to the owners of season tickets, and to visitors paying at the doors.

Season Tickets.

(f) Season tickets, price two guineas, will entitle the owner to admission to the opening and all other ceremonials as well as at all times when the building is open to the public.

(g) Season tickets must be signed before presentation. The owners must produce them and write their names in a book at the door each time they enter the building.

(h) Season tickets are not transferable, and if presented by any other persons than the registered owners will be forfeited, and the names of the offenders will be published. If lost, they will not be re-placed, unless, in special cases, sanctioned by the Commissioners.

Prices of Admission.

(i) On the first Tuesday in January 1865 on the occasion of the opening ceremonial the admissions will be restricted to the owners of season tickets or others paying £1 for the day.

(j) On the second and third days the price of admission will be ten shillings each person, and the Commissioners reserve to themselves the right of appointing six other days when the same charge will be made.

(k) From the third to the seventeenth day five shillings.

(l) From the seventeenth to the thirty-first day two shillings and six pence.

(m) After the thirty-first day the prices of admission will, on Saturdays, be one shilling, and on other days two shillings and six pence.

ADMISSION OF PERSONS AND RECEPTION OF ARTICLES DURING THE ARRANGEMENT OF THE EXHIBITION.

Admission of Persons.

[124.]

125. No person whatever will be admitted unless he is the bearer of a pass or day ticket.

[126—135.]

136. Passes and day tickets must be shewn on entering and leaving, and whenever demanded, within the building.

137. Passes and day tickets are not transferable. The transfer of a pass or ticket will, on discovery, subject the holder to expulsion from the building and prevent the person to whom it was originally issued from obtaining another admission.

[138—141.]

142. The door-keepers will be held responsible for any person found in the building without a pass or ticket.

143. The Officer in charge of a division will be held responsible for the presence of any unauthorised person within it.

144. Every person not properly authorized found in the building or handling or conveying or removing any package or article from one part of the building to another will be liable to be given into custody.

145. No person will be allowed to carry any bundle or parcel of any size or kind whatever out of the building before it has been opened or examined.

146. All persons using tow or cotton waste must provide slate or metal boxes for containing the refuse.

147. Smoking is strictly prohibited. No dogs will be admitted.

148. The introduction of lucifer matches into the building is strictly forbidden.

149. Officers and servants of the Commissioners must attend punctually at the appointed hours, and enter their names in the books provided for that purpose.

150. Intoxication or disobedience of orders will subject the offender to immediate dismissal.

151. The receipt of fee or payment of any kind by any Officers or servants of the Commissioners will subject the receivers to dismissal.

Mode of Passing New Zealand Goods into the Building.

152. All articles must be delivered at the building with all charges and dues whatever upon them paid.

153. There will be several entrances for the reception of goods.

154. Goods and machinery will be received during such hours only as may from time to time be fixed.

155. No person but the carman will be allowed to enter with a waggon, and he will not be permitted to leave the waggon while within the precincts of the building.

156. Every article sent separately and every package must be legibly marked with the class number and the name of the exhibitor or exhibitors.

157. An Officer will be appointed to superintend the unloading and transporting of the articles to their respective places, and the following regulations will be observed in the reception and distribution of goods:—

1. Every package, on its delivery into the building, to be entered in a register, with the name and address of the sender, the class to which it belongs, and whether received in good condition or damaged.

2. A rotation number to be marked distinctly on each package, the same number to be entered against the sender's name in the register.

3. All packages to be removed from the landing stage and deposited in charge of the superintendent or his deputy, at places appointed for such purposes, as soon as possible after their reception into the building.

4. Packages accidentally delivered or received at the wrong places, or from which the name of the exhibitor may have become obliterated, to be deposited in a place set apart for such packages.

5. In order to facilitate the answering of enquiries the rotation numbers of all packages received during the day will be entered in a book containing the names of the exhibitors, alphabetically arranged, to be made up every evening.

158. Each division will have a superintendent and requisite attendants.

161. All packing cases, &c., must be removed by the exhibitors as soon as they receive orders from the Commissioners to do so. Packing cases not removed within three days after notice will be sold and the proceeds applied to the funds of the Exhibition.

Mode of Passing Foreign and Colonial Goods into the Building.

162. The receipt of all foreign and colonial articles will be subject to the control of the Officers of the Customs, and in case any difficulty should arise application is to be made to the Senior Customs' Officer at the building.

163. The Officers of the Customs and their servants will be provided with passes, and will be privileged to enter all portions of the building in which they may have business.

165. Goods and machinery will be received during such hours only as may from time to time be fixed.

[164.]

166. All articles and packages must be delivered at the building with all charges and dues whatever paid on them.

167. Every article sent separately, and every package, must be legibly marked with the name of the foreign country or colony of which they are the produce or manufacture, and, as far as practicable, with the name of the exhibitors.

169. The carts or waggons will be unloaded in rotation by the Officers of the Exhibition, when rotation numbers will be affixed to each package by the Officers of the Customs.

170. The packages must be produced on arrival to the Officer of Customs at the Exhibition, who will see that the Customs' number, as well as the name of the foreign country, is affixed to each package, which will then be conveyed to its destination in the building.

171. The Officer in charge of each division will see that the packages belong to that division; that the Customs' rotation number is marked thereon; and that the goods are then properly stored within it. When the articles of each country are deposited within the space assigned to them the exhibitors or their agents must themselves unpack, put together, and arrange them. In the case of foreign and colonial productions, as they must be necessarily unpacked for a considerable time before they are finally arranged for exhibition, it is suggested that the consignees or agents should be authorised to provide proper temporary coverings, such as glazed calico, to protect the articles from dust, and in the case of machinery and polished goods, to make the requisite arrangements for keeping the articles free from rust.

172. The Officers of the Exhibition in charge of each division will cause all packages properly certified as empty to be arranged in places hereafter to be determined upon.

173. All packing cases, &c., must be removed by exhibitors or their agents as soon as they receive notice from the Commissioners to do so.

174. All packing cases not removed within three days after notice will be sold and the proceeds applied to the funds of the Exhibition.

175. Exhibitors intending to introduce foreign articles upon which duty has been paid, with the view of exhibiting them amongst the goods of the country of which they are the produce or manufacture, must have a ticket attached to each, with the words, "Duty Paid," thereon; and to prevent difficulty in their delivery at the close of the Exhibition they should be brought under the notice of the principal Officer of Customs at the time they are brought in.

From H. W. I. WOOD, ESQ., Secretary to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, to E. C. BAYLEY, ESQ., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(dated the 1st March 1864.)

THE Commissioners appointed by Her Majesty for devising and carrying out an Exhibition of the industrial products and manufactures of New Zealand have forwarded to this Chamber copies of documents which set forth the objects in view, and have requested their aid in obtaining for the Exhibition such articles and machines as shall worthily represent the industry of Bengal and tend to promote that of New Zealand.

The Committee of this Chamber will gladly co-operate in carrying out the project submitted in these papers; but they are of opinion that the end will be better arrived at by placing the subject in the first instance before the Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council for such directions as His Excellency may consider expedient to give.

I have the honor therefore to forward the communication from the Commissioners and the documents attached to it, which the Committee request you will be so good as to take an early opportunity of bringing to His Excellency's notice.

From J. W. S. WYLLIE, ESQ., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to F. R. COCKERELL, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1845, dated the 16th March 1864.)

I AM directed to transfer, for disposal under the orders of the Lieutenant-Governor, the accompanying letter,* dated 1st instant, from the Secretary to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, relative to an approaching Industrial Exhibition in New Zealand.

Notification.

THE following correspondence connected with the transfer of the duty of laying Palanqueen Dâks for travellers in Bengal from the Post Office Department to Magistrates of Districts is published for general information :—

Letter from Under-Secretary, Government of India, Home Department, No. 802, dated 3rd February 1864.

Letter to all Commissioners, No. 897, dated 22nd February 1864, with Rules annexed.

From J. W. S. WYLLIE, ESQ., Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 802, dated the 3rd February 1864.)

FORWARDED to the Government of Bengal, with the intimation that the Governor General in Council entirely approves of the proposed transfer, and that effect may be given to it from any date which may be thought desirable by the Lieutenant-Governor.

From A. M. MONTEATH, ESQ., in charge of the Office of Director-General of the Post Office of India, to E. C. BAYLEY, ESQ., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 2353, dated the 31st December 1863.)

I HAVE the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication No. 6174A., dated the 1st October last, and in reply to state that the laying of of Palanqueen Dâks for travellers in Bengal is a work in the performance of which, by the Post Office, considerable trouble and inconvenience have resulted to the Officers of the Department, while but little satisfaction has been given to the public.

2. The duty involves considerable cash transactions and account-keeping, as will be seen from the marginal Statement of the Receipts and Disbursements of the Dâk Bearer's Department for 1862-63 for the Bengal Circle. It involves also a good deal of correspondence in the way of orders and complaints about the laying of Dâks.

	Rs.	As.	P.
Receipts ..	73,859	9	9
Disbursements ...	73,636	9	11

3. I feel sure that the transfer of the work from the Post Office will conduce considerably to the efficiency of the Department in its purely Postal business, while there seems every reason to believe that more satisfaction will be given to the public by the local Agency which the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to employ.

4. The Post-Master General of Bengal will be prepared to discontinue the duty from any date which it may be considered advisable to fix.

5. I would take the opportunity of suggesting that enquiries might be made, of the Governments and Administrations noted in the margin, whether similar arrangements might not be made by them for undertaking the duty of laying Palanqueen Dâks. In Madras, Bombay, and British Burmah the Post Office does not lay Palanqueen Dâks, so that no reference need be made in regard to them.

North-Western Provinces.
Punjab.
Oude.
Central Provinces.

6 Hitherto the surplus receipts of the Dâk Bearer's Department have been credited to the Staging Bungalow Fund; and, as the management of Staging Bungalows throughout the Bengal Presidency is to be transferred* from the 1st May next to the Local Governments, the present seems to be a fitting opportunity to consider the expediency of transferring, at the same time, the duty of laying Palanqueen Dâks.

* See Orders No. 5431, dated 5th November, communicated with Home Office docket No. 7438 of 30th idem.

From S. C. BAYLEY, ESQ., Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to all Commissioners,—(No. 897, dated the 22nd February 1864.)

THE control of the Dâk Bearer Service having been transferred from the Post Office Department to the Magistrates of Districts with effect from the 1st May 1864, I am directed by the Lieutenant Governor to forward the enclosed Rules for the guidance of travellers, and to request that the several District Officers in your Division may be instructed to have a copy of them posted in every Staging Bungalow in their respective Districts.

2. The rate to be paid to bearers is, it will be observed, the local Bazar rate, which it will be the duty of the District Officers to ascertain from month to month.

3. A Chowdhry of bearers, to be selected by themselves, should be appointed at every Sudder Station, and an Agent of the Chowdhry's (or where that is impossible another Chowdhry) should be appointed at every Sub-Division.

4. The Chowdhry, on being appointed, must undertake to provide all Dâks within reasonable limits on requisition throughout the whole of the District, and as far as the next Sudder Station.

5. For this he is to receive a percentage of one anna on every Rupee paid to the bearers. This sum will not be paid to him for a period of five days from the departure of each traveller, and in case of any complaints that the traveller may make of delay or inconvenience caused by the absence or misbehaviour of the bearers being found well grounded, the Chowdhry will be held responsible, and may be punished by the withholding of his commission or by removal from office.

6 It is desirable that District Officers should appoint some Officer under them to the special duty of keeping the correspondence regarding Dâks, drawing out the Memorandum required in Rule IV. of the accompanying Rules, and communicating generally with the Chowdhry; and in cases where a Chowdhry cannot be found competent to the work that Officer should undertake the duty himself.

7. He also should receive a percentage of one anna in the Rupee apart from, and in addition to, the Chowdhry's fee, and he should be held responsible for timely notice being given to the Officer of the neighbouring District, and for the correctness of the Memorandum and the general regularity of the Dâks. This duty should generally be made over to one of the Clerks. The appointment, however, of other Officers (such as the Court Inspector) is not absolutely prohibited.

8. Whenever the Magistrate may be absent himself from the Sudder Station the duties connected with the posting of Dâk bearers should be specially deputed to the Officer in charge of the Station, who will open all letters addressed as directed in Rule III., and will be responsible for taking proper action on the same.

9. A printed paper in the annexed Form should be given to every traveller at the same time as the Memorandum of his account, and the Magistrate receiving it at the end of a stage will return it (with remarks if necessary) to the Magistrate who gave it to the traveller.

Date.	Time of leaving the Station.	Nature of complaint if any.	Time of arrival.

N. B.—This paper is to be given to the Magistrate of the next Station where the traveller may halt, who will transmit it, on Her Majesty's Service, to the District Officer of the Station mentioned in Column II.

10. At Stations where private Dâk Companies are established it will be desirable for the Magistrate to avail himself of their services, in preference to those of the Chowdhry, whenever it is possible to do so.

RULES.

The control of the Dâk Bearer Service having been transferred throughout the Lieutenant-Governorship of Bengal from the Post Office Department to the Magistrates of Districts, the following Rules are published for general information:—

I. Travellers by Palkee Dâk, who are unable to make their own arrangements for posting bearers, will, if possible, be furnished with Daks on application to the Magistrate of the District, from whom also they will obtain all the requisite information as to the estimated distances between known Stations to which only Dâk bearers can be laid by any Magistrate.

II. It is to be clearly understood that District Magistrates will not be held responsible for providing Dâks absolutely whenever and wherever required. They will, however, to the best of their ability, endeavor to secure the comfort and facilitate the transport of travellers, and will act as a means of communication between travellers and bearers. Their responsibility extends no further than this.

III. All applications for posting bearers must be postpaid and superscribed Bearer Service, in order that no delay may occur in their being opened. They must contain a statement of the places at which the traveller intends to halt, and the number of hours to be spent at each halting place. The Officer addressed will order the bearers to be posted through the different corresponding Authorities, and will inform the applicant of any delay that may be unavoidable in laying his Dâk.

IV. The Magistrate will furnish all travellers with a Memorandum in the annexed Form, shewing the charges for hire of bearers, banghy burdars, and masalchees, (including a charge of two annas in the Rupee for Chowdhry's fee and Office expenses.) The Memorandum will include the charge, if any, for demurrage, and it will be drawn out so as to include all charges for the journey as far as the next District Officer's Station at which the traveller may declare his intention of halting. There a similar Memorandum will be presented to him, and so on to the end of the journey.

Stages.	Distance.	Number of Bearers.	Amount of Bearers' hire.	Masalchee and Banghy.	Chowdhry's and Writer's fees.	Total.	Remarks.

N. B.—Demurrage at the rate of one anna for the first day per bearer, and three annas for each succeeding day, will be entered at the foot.

V. No traveller will be allowed to make use of the bearers provided for him, or to leave the Station, until all the charges connected with his Dâk are satisfied.

VI. A traveller, on arriving at the Station of any District Officer where he purposes to halt, should, at the time of receiving the Memorandum of the charges for his journey onward, note in the printed Form, which will be supplied to him for the purpose, any complaint of delay or incivility on the part of the bearers, and the paper will be forwarded to the District Officer who posted the bearers for adjudication. Should the traveller not be proceeding further the paper of complaint will be presented to the District Officer of the Station where his journey ends, who will forward it to the Officer by whom the bearers were posted.

VII. Travellers' baggage must not exceed for each banghy burdar twenty-four seers, and should be divided into two parcels or petarrahs of such dimensions as to render them conveniently portable when slung as banghies.

VIII. It is to be distinctly understood that Magistrates are not expected to provide Palkees for travellers.

IX. The rate of hire to be paid to the bearers will be the local market rate for the time being, and it will be the Magistrate's duty to ascertain and fix this from month to month.

X. When a Dâk has been ordered, and circumstances may cause the traveller to postpone or to forego his journey, he will be liable for all charges actually incurred on his account.

XI. In case a traveller considers any charge made upon him by the Magistrate irregular, or open to question, he must, notwithstanding, comply, at the time, with the demand, and the question may subsequently be referred to the Commissioner of the Division, who will, if necessary, order a refund.

XII. All persons availing themselves of the Officers of Government for laying Dâks are to be held as, ipso facto, binding themselves to adhere to the above Resolutions.

2*nd.*—Holders of Shares or Stock, whether in India or elsewhere, shall be allowed to the 15th day of August 1864 to claim the new issue. All Shares or Stock not claimed by the said date shall be at the disposal of the Directors, who shall cause the same to be sold for the benefit of the Bank, in such manner and at such times as they may deem expedient.

3*rd.*—Payments in one sum of the amount of Subscription on any whole, half, or quarter Share or Stock, to which any Proprietor may be entitled under this Notification, may be made, at any time, after the publication thereof. On all such payments, prior to the 30th June next, interest will be allowed, at the rate of 8 per Cent. per annum, from date of payment to the 30th June; and the Shares or Stock so paid up shall, thenceforward, be entitled to dividend. Para. 16.—In your letter of the 22nd of June you observe that, by the orders of the Court of Directors, an exception to the rule prohibiting the grant of pensions for other than continuous service was permitted when such service was interrupted by resignation of office, in which case one break of not more than twelve months was allowed. It was not my intention to continue this exception, and you rightly omitted it from the Revised Rules. At the same time I concur with you in thinking that it would be harsh towards the Members of the Uncovenanted Service to give retrospective effect to the alteration, and it will therefore only apply prospectively.

NOTIFICATION.

The following Notification issued by the Government of India, in the Financial Department, is re-published for general information :—

No. 1915.—The 13th April 1864.—Notification.—In accordance with instructions received from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, His Excellency the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the following revised edition of the Rules for the grant of leave of absence and retiring pensions to Uncovenanted Servants in India, which were promulgated in Financial Notifications, Nos. 2426 and 2427 of the 8th June 1863 :—

LEAVE OF ABSENCE
TO UNCOVENANTED SERVANTS.

These Rules are applicable to all Officers of the Uncovenanted Civil Service receiving salaries of not less than Rupees 100 a month, whether they receive their appointments direct from Government or from Heads of Offices and Departments.

The following are the kinds of leave allowed :—

I. Leave on Medical Certificate.
II. Leave on Private Affairs and Furlough.
III. Privilege Leave.
IV. Preparatory or Additional Leave.

General Rules.

1. All applications for leave must be made publicly through the regular channel in the Department to which the applicant belongs.

2. Officers appointed by Government can obtain privilege leave from the Heads of their respective Departments when the latter are duly authorized to exercise this power. But in other cases leave must be granted by Government.

3. Officers appointed by Heads of Offices and Departments can obtain any leave under these Rules without reference to Government; but the Authorities granting such leave must furnish to the Civil or Military Audit Office which passes the Pay Bill of their Establishment a Monthly Return of the leave granted by them according to the Form given in Appendix A.

4. Absence without leave will involve loss of salary, and render the absentee liable to loss of appointment.

5. No leave of absence shall have retrospective effect, except in case of severe illness, to be attested by a Medical Certificate in the prescribed Form.

Applications for leave on Medical Certificate

6. Applications for leave on Medical Certificate must be accompanied by a statement from the applicant's medical attendant, distinctly stating, from personal observation, the nature of the disease, its symptoms, causes, and duration, and by a Certificate* from the Chief Medical Officer of the Station or District, or, if at a Presidency Town, from a Presidency or other Official Surgeon, certifying, after careful personal investigation, the necessity for temporary absence, and the period for which absence is, to the best of his judgment, absolutely requisite for restoration to health. If the requisite leave be for a longer period than six months, the Certificate must be countersigned by the Superintending Surgeon of the Division in which the applicant may be employed. In cases of leave beyond sea, theCertificate must be also submitted, with the statement of the case, for the countersignature of the Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department.

Extension of leave on Medical Certificate.

7. An application for extension of leave must, if the applicant be in India, be accompanied by a Certificate to a like effect from his Medical Officer attendant, together with a statement shewing sufficient reason for the extension solicited, and such Certificate must be countersigned by the Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department, or by the Superintending Surgeon of the Division in which the applicant may be residing. If the applicant shall have proceeded beyond the Territories under the Government of India, he must furnish a Certificate and statement to the required effect from a Surgeon or Physician at the place of his temporary residence by whom he has been attended; such attendance, and the period of it, to be stated, and the Certificate to be countersigned, after personal examination, by the examining Physician of the India Office, if the absentee is in England,—or by the Principal Authority of the Colony or country to which the absentee may have proceeded.

8. If any of the above particulars be neglected, or the omission of any one of them unsatisfactorily explained, the leave will be refused

Application for Leave on Private Affairs.

9. Leave on Private Affairs and Furlough will be granted by Government, or by authorized Officers, on sufficient cause being shewn, and when the concession of the indulgence may in no way interfere with the interest of the Public Service.

Extension of Leave to date of arrival of vessel.

10. When an Officer on leave in England is permitted by the Home Government to return to duty by a particular vessel, this permission, if necessary, will be held equivalent to an extension of leave until the arrival in India of the vessel on which the Officer is permitted to return.

Leave on Medical Certificate.

11. Leave on Medical Certificate, with allowances, must in no case exceed three years in all, and not more than two years may be taken at one time. Subject to these restrictions, leave within Indian limits may be granted, with allowances, on Medical Certificate, as often as sufficient cause is shewn; but beyond Indian limits such leave cannot be granted more than twice during the whole period of service. Should any further leave be applied for on Medical Certificate it may be granted, but without any allowance. Preparatory Leave counting as service towards pension can only be admitted in regard to two periods of leave.

Leave on Private Affairs and Furlough.

12. Leave on Private Affairs and Furlough, with retention of office, may be granted as follows:—

1*st.*—Leave on Private Affairs;—For six months in one period, which leave may be repeated after intervals of six years.

2*nd*.—Or a FURLOUGH—for one year after ten years' service, and a second Furlough, also for one year, after eighteen years' service in India,—such absence being limited to two years during the whole period of service.

13. On taking leave under the preceding Rule, for the first time, an Officer must decide whether he will apply for leave on Private Affairs, or for Furlough, and having once exercised his option and obtained leave accordingly, he will not, during the remainder of his service, be eligible to the other description of leave.

14. Furlough, and Leave on Private Affairs taken in India, will reckon from the date of leaving office to the date of return thereto. Furlough, and Leave on Private Affairs, taken beyond India will reckon from the sailing of the vessel on which the Officer embarks to the date of his return to India.

15. Furlough or Leave on Private Affairs cannot be taken in continuation of Privilege Leave.

Privilege Leave.

16. Privilege leave, when it can be granted without injury to the Public Service, and without additional expense to the State, may be allowed for not more than one month in each calendar year, to be taken either in one period or in not more than two instalments. This leave is not allowed to accumulate, and will, therefore, lapse if not taken within the year.

17. Privilege leave for one month in each calendar year may be allowed to Officers who have not been absent on leave for eleven months immediately preceding, unless they took their last Privilege Leave in two instalments, in which case the indulgence will not be available until eleven months after the expiration of the first instalment, and six months after expiration of the second instalment of the previous year's Privilege Leave.

Preparatory Leave.

18. Preparatory or additional leave is allowed to Officers proceeding to or from a Sanatarium on Medical Certificate, or to or from the port of embarkation from India to Europe on Private Affairs, Furlough, or Medical Certificate, and is limited to such period as the authority granting leave may think sufficient. Officers proceeding from Presidency Towns on Sick Leave beyond Sea will be allowed fourteen days for preparation.

19. Officers retiring from the Service on pension will be allowed fourteen days' leave on half pay, provided the indulgence can be given without detriment or extra expense to the Public Service.

Absentee Pay.

20. Absentee Pay, if at half salary, shall in no case exceed Rupees 6,000 or £600 per annum,—or if at one-fourth salary, shall not exceed £300 per annum. Within these limitations Absentee Pay will be given as follows:—

1. To an Officer absent on sick leave in or out of India half salary for the first fifteen months of each period of absence, (or—if the leave be taken in short periods in India,—for the first thirty months taken from time to time, provided that half salary be not drawn for more than fifteen months at any one time), and one-fourth salary during remainder of his absence on allowances.

* In the Form given in Appendix B.

II. But if an Officer absent on private affairs obtain an extension of leave on Medical Certificate, he will be subject, for the whole period of his absence, to the Rules for Sick Leave.

III. To an Officer proceeding on Furlough whose salary does not exceed Rupees 200 per month—one-half of his salary, provided, however, that it shall not exceed Rupees 800 or £80 per annum. If the absentee's salary shall be—

Above Rupees 200, and not exceeding	400	per month,	he may be granted an annual allowance of	Rs. 1,800 or £180

IV. To an Officer on Preparatory Leave—one-half salary before commencement of other leave, and, on return from leave, one-half salary, one-fourth salary, or Furlough pay, according to the rate of allowance he may be then drawing.

V. To an Officer on Privilege Leave—full pay.

21. An Officer who overstays Privilege Leave by not more than one month will forfeit pay for the period in excess, but if he exceed his leave by more than one month his office will become vacant. An Officer on privilege leave who may resign the Service or who may obtain Sick Leave without first rejoining, will, in the former case, forfeit his salary for the period of Privilege Leave, and in the latter case be subject to the Rules for sick leave for the whole period of his absence.

Rules for joining office.

22. Time allowed for joining an appointment will be fixed by the Authority conferring the appointment.

23. An Officer entering the service of the Government is not entitled to any salary before joining his appointment, but when transferred from one appointment to another of equal or higher value he will draw so much of the salary of his new office as may be equal to that of his former appointment.

Payments of Absentee Allowances.

24. Officers absent on privilege leave cannot draw pay until their return to duty.

25. Officers proceeding to England on Furlough, or on Private Affairs, or on Medical Certificate, must obtain Certificates from the Civil Pay-Master, in the Form given below, for submission to the India Office on their arrival in London:—

Name, service, and designation of the party obtaining leave.	Sick leave, if any, taken on previous occasions.	Salary of substantive office.	Nature and period of the leave. SUPERANNUATION ALLOWANCES AND PENSIONS

UNCOVENANTED SERVANTS.

1. These Rules are applicable to all Officers of the Uncovenanted Civil Service in the receipt of more than ten Rupees a month on a permanent Establishment with the following exceptions :—

I. Jemadars, Sowars, Peons, Lascars, Boatmen, Smiths, Artificers, and all those engaged in any handicraft, Laborers, and other inferior servants.

II. Officers whose whole time is not devoted to the duties of their offices.

III. Officers not paid from the General Revenues of the State, whose eligibility to pension may not be provided for by an order issued expressly for the particular case by the Government of India, and approved by the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State.

IV. Officers for whom other Pension Rules or separate Superannuation Funds are provided.

Applications for Pension.

2. Applications for Pension must be submitted in a letter to Government by the Head of the Office or Department in which the applicant may be employed, who shall certify whether the character, conduct, and past service of the applicant are such as to entitle him to the favorable consideration of Government.

3. Every application shall be accompanied by a Register prepared according to Form A. in the Appendix. In cases of other than a Good Service Pension every application shall be accompanied by a medical certificate, stating the applicant's incapacity for further service, with the cause thereof, and whether it has been induced by irregular or intemperate habits.

4. Applicants for a Superannuation Allowance must be examined by the Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department, if serving at the Presidency, or by a Military Invaliding Committee, if serving elsewhere within a moderate distance of a Station at which a Military Invaliding Committee is periodically assembled. It is optional, however, with the Local Government to accept the certificate of a single Medical Officer, or to convene a Special Invaliding Committee at a convenient Civil Station, if the applicant be serving at an inconvenient distance from a Station where a Military Invaliding Committee can be assembled.

5. Good Service and Superannuation Allowances on retirement, sanctioned under these Rules by the Local Governments, will be reported to the Government of India in Quarterly Returns in the Form given in Appendix B.

Allowances on Retirement.

6. On production by an applicant of such medical certificates as shall satisfy the Government under which he may be serving of his incapacity to serve longer in India, he may be allowed—

I. Under fifteen years' service, a gratuity not exceeding twelve months' salary.

*II. After fifteen years' service, one-third of his average salary, (and of his personal allowance, if any,) during the previous five years, provided that in no case shall a pension be granted exceeding the sum of Rupees 3,000 per annum, whatever the amount of salary, nor of Rupees 2,000 per annum if the salary shall not exceed Rupees 12,000 per annum.

*III. After twenty-five years' service, one-half of his average salary, (and of his personal allowance, if any,) during the previous five years, provided, however, that in no case shall a pension be granted exceeding Rupees 5,000 per annum, whatever the amount of salary, nor exceeding Rupees 4,000 per annum, if the salary shall not exceed Rupees 12,000 per annum.

7. After thirty years' service or upwards a pension may be granted, without production of medical certificate, of the same amount and subject to the same limitation as that sanctioned for twenty-five years' service on medical certificate. This pension, as the reward of faithful, efficient discharge of duty for thirty years, is termed a Good Service Pension.

8. Pensions of the full amount authorized in paragraphs 5 and 6 are to be granted only as the reward of approved service. In any case in which an Uncovenanted Servant, without having incurred the penalty of removal from Government employ, shall, nevertheless, in the opinion of the Government under which he has been serving, not be entitled to the full amount of pension, the Local Government will make such a reduction in the amount of pension as it shall consider just.

9. The foregoing rates of pension and gratuity are applicable also, without the production of a medical certificate of unfitness for service, to Officers discharged on reduction of Establishment.

Service towards Pension.

10. Dismissal for misconduct entails forfeiture of the benefit of past service.

11. Service as a substitute does not count towards pension.

12. Periods of service before the age of 22, or of absence on other than Privilege Leave and Preparatory Leave, shall not count towards pension. Nor shall Preparatory Leave be allowed to count as service if it is granted in addition to leave on Medical Certificate to an Officer who has enjoyed leave of the latter description on two previous occasions.

13. The whole of the service in virtue of which pension is claimed must have been passed in an eligible grade and on a permanent Establishment; but claims barred by this Rule will be especially considered if the promotion from an ineligible grade was bestowed as a reward for meritorious service or for good conduct.

14. The period of service must be continuous, but in case of the abolition of the office held by an Officer, and his being subsequently employed by Government, his first period of service is to be taken into account.

Gratuities.

15. When an Officer is discharged with a gratuity under these Rules on reduction of Establishment, the gratuity will not be given to him in one sum, but in monthly instalments of a month's pay until the full amount is paid. Should he be re-employed before or after the period for which gratuity is allowed, he will have the option of refunding the gratuity and recovering his former service, or of forfeiting that service by retaining the gratuity. In the latter case, any balance of gratuity remaining undrawn at the date of his re-employment may be paid to him.

Payment of Pensions.

16. Payment of Pension will commence from the date on which the applicant ceases to be borne on the Establishment, or from that of his application, whichever may be the later date.

BANK OF BENGAL,

12TH MARCH 1864.

NOTIFICATION.

It is hereby notified that as the present Capital of the Bank is insufficient to meet its requirements, in consequence of the increase of business, principally arising from the establishment of Branches subordinate to the Bank in various parts of the Bengal Presidency, the Directors have determined, under the authority vested in them by Section 6, Act IV. of 1862, to increase the Capital from one crore, nine lacs, ninety thousand, nine hundred and nine Rupees, to two crores and twenty lacs, by the issue of new Shares or consolidated Stock under the following conditions :—

1*st.*—Holders of old Shares will be entitled to claim new Shares at par, in the proportion of one Share for every Share of which they may be registered as Proprietors in the Books of the Bank. Registered Proprietors of consolidated Stock will, in like manner, be entitled to an equivalent amount of new Stock at par.

2*nd.*—Holders of Shares or Stock, whether in India or elsewhere, shall be allowed to the 15th day of August 1864 to claim the new issue. All Shares or Stock not claimed by the said date shall be at the disposal of the Directors, who shall cause the same to be sold for the benefit of the Bank, in such manner and at such times as they may deem expedient.

3*rd.*—Payments in one sum of the amount of Subscription on any whole, half, or quarter Share or Stock, to which any Proprietor may be entitled under this Notification, may be made, at any time, after the publication thereof. On all such payments, prior to the 30th June next, interest will be allowed, at the rate of 8 per Cent. per annum, from date of payment to the 30th June; and the Shares or Stock so paid up shall, thenceforward, be entitled to dividend. On all payments, made subsequent to the 30th June, interest will similarly be allowed (at the rate of 8 per Cent.) until the 31st December following, from which date the Shares or Stock so paid up shall, in like manner, become entitled to dividend.

4*th.*—The transfer Books will be closed from the 16th to the 31st of August 1864 inclusive. All Shares or Stock previously subscribed for, but on which the full amount of Capital shall not be paid by the last mentioned date, will lapse to the Bank and will be at the disposal of the Directors as provided in Clause 2.

By Order of the Directors,

C. N. COOKE,

Report of the Committee appointed to inquire into the causes of the Epidemic, its course, and the best means of checking its further progress.

From F. ANDERSON, ESQ., M. D., Deputy-Inspector General of Hospitals, President of the Commission, to F. R. COCKERELL, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 31st March 1864.)

SIR,—WITH reference to your letter No. 97, dated the 8th January last, I have now the honor to transmit, for submission to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, the Proceedings of a Commission deputed by him for the purpose of instituting an enquiry into the probable causes of the fevers that have caused so terrible a mortality in the Districts of Hooghly, Burdwan, Nuddea, Jessore, and the 24-Pergunnahs.

REPORT.

IN compliance with the instructions contained in a communication, No. 97 of the 8th January last, from the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Deputy Inspector-General of Hospitals, Barrackpore Circle, a preliminary meeting of the Members appointed by Government to form a Commission to proceed to the Districts affected by epidemic fever and enquire into the nature and probable causes of the epidemic was held at Dr. F. Anderson's House at Barrackpore on the 14th January, to take into consideration the plan to be adopted for the purpose of carrying out the orders of Government; and it was settled that the Commission should personally, and as far as possible in concert, visit those villages which had suffered most severely in the fever-stricken Districts.

2. On studying the subjects of enquiry propounded in the Government letter it appeared advisable that an application should be made for the appointment, as an additional Member of the Commission, of a qualified Engineer. The application was accordingly made, and met with the approval of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. Mr. Leonard was added to the list of Members, but the Commission had nearly concluded their tour of investigation before the orders of Government on the subject were known, and Mr. Leonard's services have not, therefore, been made practically available.

3. On the 19th January the Commission visited the large Village of Pundooah on the East Indian Railway, and from that date until the end of February they were engaged in visiting the villages, which were reported as having suffered the most severely during the past few years, in the Districts of Burdwan, Hooghly, Nuddea, and the 24-Pergunnahs. The following are the names of some of the larger and more interesting of these villages:—

In Burdwan.—Culna.

In Hooghly.—Keuta, Shahagunge, Seebpore, Trebeni, Pundooah, Dwarbashini, Bolaghur, and Goopteepara.

In Nuddea.—Kanchrapara, Chogda, Kishnaghur, and Oolah.

In 24-Pergunnahs.—Baraset, Rajahath, Majergram, Neelgunge, Bara Jagoolee, and Halleshahur.

4. We propose in this Report to adhere to the line of enquiry indicated in the Government letter, and to reply categorically to the several questions contained therein, drawing such inferences and conclusions as may strike us as important and tending to practical results.

5. The general remarks which we have to offer on the subjects noted in these questions may be conveniently embraced in one reply.

I.—The general condition of the surface.

Enquiry should be made as to—

(1.) The general levels of the District or locality in which epidemic is, or has recently been, prevalent, with reference to the levels of the rivers in the dry as well as in the rainy season.

(2.) The surface of the District and the nature of the soil, whether it is an unbroken dry plain in the rains or more or less under water either from the overflowing of tanks and rivers or from want of fall sufficient to carry off the rain water.

(3.) The proportion of the surface, which is never covered with water, as compared with the space which is occasionally submerged.

(4.) Whether the surface water is absorbed by the soil or subsides, by means of drainage, natural or artificial, into tanks, khals, creeks, or low marshy ground, or is allowed to remain until it is evaporated, more or less, from the surface by the solar rays?

(5.) To what elevation, if any, the sites of villages are raised above the inundated plains?

6. The tract of country within which the fever has, during the last few years, appeared in an unusually violent form extends from the Station of Kishnaghur on the north to Rajahath and the adjoining villages on the south; and from Dwarbashini, six miles from Pundooah, on the west, to Sreenugger, about twelve miles from Chogdah, on the east. Beyond this tract the disease has appeared with extreme virulence in only a few isolated places, as Meherpore, Joyrampore, and Gudkhali. The tract specified is traversed by the Rivers Hooghly, Matabhanga, and Jaboona, and by numerous khals, some of which communicate with the Hooghly and other tidal rivers. In the greater number, probably all, of these khals, throughout the whole or a portion of their extent, the flow of water is obstructed by obstacles natural and artificial.

7. The banks of the Hooghly are higher than the adjacent inland country. The level of the water in the river is, as a general rule, during the wet season above, and during the dry season below, the level of the inland country. Consequently the general direction of the flow of water through the khals, which connect the river with the bheels and low rice lands of the interior, is at the former period inland from the river, while at the latter period the water drains into the river from the interior. As a general rule the Hooghly does not overflow its banks; but in many places, where large churs have been formed, it covers, during the height of the wet season, an expanse at least three times as great as that which it occupies during the cold and the dry hot months. The surface of the infected tract is therefore inundated, for the most part, by rain only, and but to a limited extent by the river water, and is consequently not enriched by an annually deposited layer of fresh alluvial soil as the Districts to the eastward are. Still no inconsiderable quantity of deposit finds its way from the rivers into the bheels; and this, supplemented by a constant process of local alluvion and diluvion which has been long going on in all the bheels, khals, and tanks, effected by the action of rain and wind in washing and driving soil from higher to lower levels,—and also in all probability assisted by a gradual, but continuous, rise in the level of the river bed itself,—has, during the last few years, reached a point at which the natural drainage of the country has become seriously affected.

8. The soil is uniformly alluvial mud, with a very considerable admixture of sand. In some villages as Dwarbashini the sandy ingredients predominate. The villages are built along the river banks, which, as above observed, are higher than the neighbouring country, and are also in the interior built on any spots or lines of country the elevation of which is a few feet higher than the level of the water in the surrounding bheels at the height of the rainy season. The proportion of the area occupied by these bheels at that season to that of the country which is never actually submerged cannot be satisfactorily ascertained without a regular survey; but we are probably within limits in estimating three quarters of the whole area of the country to be inundated at some period during the rains. The surface water in the villages disappears after the cessation of the rains in all the modes supposed in question 4. A portion is absorbed by the soil; a large portion flows from the higher to the lower lands, and thence into the khals and rivers; and a very considerable amount is removed by evaporation.

9. The prevailing cultivation during the rainy season is late rice (áman dhán); during the dry season early rice (áous dhán), peas, mustard, sugar-cane, urhur, and in some places potatoes. At Dwarbashini, where the fever, during the past two years, has been extremely severe, the cultivation of the potato is very extensive, and the grounds are all artificially irrigated. There is but little waste land outside the precincts of the villages.

(6.) What the prevailing cultivation is generally, and the condition of the surface in the vicinity of the villages in regard to cultivation, waste land, and conservancy.

10. About the houses and within the villages themselves there is absolutely no cultivation, properly so called, but thick plantations of bamboos, and of mangoe and jack trees, are everywhere found. A few pumpkins are here and there allowed to trail over the huts, and in one or two instances only did we observe a diminutive patch of ground planted with tobacco. The surface of the land within the villages is covered with low jungle.

(7.) To what extent garden cultivation is carried on about the houses or within the villages?

II.—The habitations of the people.

11. The villages are not laid out on any plan whatever. Where bazars exist they consist of shops constructed in continuous, but by no means invariably straight, rows. In this arrangement neither the direction of the prevailing wind, nor the adoption of any conservancy arrangements, have for a moment been kept in view. A hut is built on any convenient spot. The floor and walls are made of earth, procured by digging a hole close by, which becomes a receptacle for filth of all kinds. And very generally the plot of ground belonging to the hut, or batch of huts, is surrounded and hedged in by fast growing jungle and bamboos, by which all ventilation is effectually obstructed.

(8.) As to whether the villages are laid out upon any uniform or general plan, the houses being arranged in straight continuous rows of streets or lanes, so as to secure any given frontage to the houses with reference to prevailing winds, and to admit of the exercise of strict conservancy rules and arrangements?

12. Filth and refuse are generally deposited in, or on the banks of, any neighbouring khal, or puddle, or hole, but more especially on the river bank, when it is sufficiently near to be readily available. The hole, which, as above noticed, generally adjoins each villager's hut, is too frequently resorted to as the depository

(9.) Whether there are given places allotted in each village for the collection of filth and refuse, and if so, what are the relative positions of such places to the houses, more especially with reference to prevailing winds?

of all household filth. The inhibitants, however, do not appear to be incommoded by the effluvia arising from the matters thus deposited.

13. In no village that we visited were there any public necessaries, or any domestic arrangements of the kind indicated. In the very centre of the Station of Kishnaghur we observed that the people publicly resorted to the open, and then dried up, bed of the nullah for the purpose of answering the calls of nature.

(10.) Whether there are any public necessaries, or other domestic arrangements, for the disposal of filth?

14. Village huts are usually constructed of a mud floor, with walls either of mud or of coarse mats, and with a thatch roof. The floors are raised from one to five feet above the surface of the ground. Generally there is but one door. It opens into the front verandah, and there is no other opening in the house walls on any side. This, however, is not quite invariably the case. The only protection against damp is afforded by the raised floor. Ventilation is entirely ignored. In the utter absence of reliable statistics as to the population of any village we visited it is impossible to say what is even the probable cubic and superficial space allowed to each inmate; but we have reason to believe, from the information afforded us, that before the invasion of the epidemic the houses were, as a rule, considerably overcrowded. The poorer classes sleep, for the most part, on mats, on the floors of their houses, and in the verandahs. In the houses of those in more affluent circumstances large low bedsteads are in general use.

(11.) What the usual construction of village houses is? How high the floors are raised above the surface? What means are provided against damp and to secure ventilation generally above and below the floor? What the probable square and superficial space allowed for each inmate is, and whether, as a rule, they all sleep on charpoys or bedsteads, or lie upon the floor?

15. The ventilation of the houses in which the richer classes reside is not attended to with one whit more care than that of the dwellings of their poorer neighbours. On the contrary the plan upon which the brick-houses of the higher classes are constructed is, with the single exception of their being often furnished with an upper story, the very worst that could be adopted. The filth and scourings of the house are frequently, we fear generally, allowed to trickle through some opening in the floor and brick-work, and lie immediately beneath the walls. No attempt of any kind is made to secure ventilation. For a dwelling we should prefer the raised mud floor of the poor man's hut, with its mat walls and thatch roof, to the confined ill-built brick-work of the houses in which the higher classes reside. How far the progress of the epidemic has been affected by the condition of the people's dwellings will be further discussed below.

(12.) Whether the houses of the better class are more open and freely ventilated above and below than those of the poor, and the conservancy and other arrangements calculated to secure a free space, pure air, better attended to in the houses of persons in good circumstances than in those of the poor? How far the origin and progress of the epidemic appears to have been affected in each locality by the different conditions of the foregoing?

16. The food of the villagers differs in no wise from that used by the Natives of the country generally. It is chiefly farinaceous, consisting of rice, vegetables, spices, and fish. To this diet the Mahomedans add flesh meat, but of this we believe that they really consume but little. The important fact, however, to be noticed is that of late years no deterioration has taken place in the quality or quantity of the food used. On the contrary, in every place visited by us the same story was told of an unusual prosperity extending back for some eight or ten years among all classes of the community. Food was good, and, though the price of it had risen, there had been a fully equivalent increase in the means of the people. It must be understood, however, that this favorable description applies to the villages as they existed before they were attacked by the epidemic. Their state is now lamentably changed. In many of them the few survivors, suffering as they are from the debilitating effects and the sequelæ of febrile attacks, are unable to earn sufficient money to provide themselves with food and other necessaries. Here and there charitable funds have been organized, with the view of affording wholesome food to the indigent and sick, and of meeting their other immediate wants. Such considerate and well-timed aid has been more particularly and systematically rendered to the villagers in and near the Station of Kishnaghur.

(13.) What the food chiefly consists of?

17. Our enquiries on this head have been searching and minute, and we regret to be obliged to record that no precautions whatever appear to be taken, either to preserve from impurities the sources of water-supply for cooking and drinking purposes, or in any way to cleanse or purify the water before use. As a general rule, the river water is used by those who reside sufficiently near the river to obtain it without difficulty. Persons residing at a greater distance from the river use tank water, and this is constantly polluted by people bathing and washing their clothes in it. These tanks, gradually filling up as they have been from the time of their first excavation, and being constantly used as receptacles for all kinds of refuse and filth, have become year by year more obnoxious, and the water in them has been rendered less and less fit for domestic purposes.

(14.) What precautions, if any, are taken to preserve sources of water-supply for drinking and cooking purposes pure and free from contamination? Also whether the inhabitants of the disease-striken villages have been in the habit of resorting to the same tanks or ponds for the purpose of bathing and also of procuring water for domestic purposes?

18. In discussing this section of our subject we propose to describe—

III.—Nature of epidemic.

1*st*.—The nature, symptoms, and progress of the disease.

2*nd*.—Its history and the degree of its similarity to other febrile epidemics which have occurred in this country.

3*rd*.—The pre-disposing and exciting causes at work.

(15.) As to whether any similar epidemic has been known to occur in Bengal either generally or partially, and wherein it differs from the epidemic of 1833 described in the early Volumes of the Medical and Physical Society, Calcutta, and other epidemics in Bengal?

(16.) What the type of the disease is, and what the organs chiefly concerned? Whether the symptoms are uniform, and the general character of the disease, the same, or modified by season and locality?

19. Although, as we have already stated, we visited the chief seats of the disease, we have had no opportunity afforded us of actually observing a recent case, i. e., the case of a person previously healthy who had been recently attacked, for the fever in its acute form gradually disappears as the dry weather progresses, and a fresh case is scarcely to be found after the month of December. Our opinions have consequently been formed upon the information we have collected from numerous, and in very many instances well-informed intelligent residents of the localities we visited, and from Dr. Elliot's Report of last year. We have, however, had ample opportunities in all the villages we went through of observing the lamentable effects of the disease on the persons of those who have survived its attacks, but still carry about with them the sequelæ of the original malady. The descriptions given us so completely tallied with Dr. Elliot's account that we believe there can be no doubt as to the accuracy of the following conclusions.

20. We may describe this, as Dr. Elliot has described it, as essentially a "congestive remittent fever," characterised in its most deadly and most rapid forms by great general prostration, cerebral congestion, (which peculiarity has gained for this particular fever the appellation among the Natives of "jwar bekár,") and early collapse, from which the patient, having no power to rally, is cut off in from thirty-six hours to four or five days. The premonitory symptoms appear to be not well marked, but there is little doubt that for some time previous to the actual attack the patient is indisposed, though he seldom pays much attention to this warning. The first stage is ushered in by an accession of febrile heat, preceded by only slight shivering, frequently by no sensation of coldness whatever. This heat rapidly increases, and the disease runs the quick fatal course we have described. Should the patient, however, escape this deadly and urgent attack, the fever clings to him with unabated violence for a period of from fifteen to twenty-five days from the commencement of attack. During this period many succumb and die from exhaustion. After the fifteenth day, however, remission or intermission takes place, and the heat of skin and more urgent symptoms disappear, leaving the sufferer in a dangerous state of weakness and exhaustion. This freedom from febrile excitement continues for some ten days, when the enemy again assaults him, and though this takes place generally in a less violent and deadly manner than at first, yet from previous suffering and exhaustion the enervated frame is less able than before to withstand the attack, and the result is often fatal. This second attack, as just stated, is in itself less violent than the first, and it is of far shorter duration. The fever now assumes a well marked intermittent type; it returns usually after an interval of fourteen days, at new and full moon, and clings with great obstinacy to its victim. Still, though the well marked intermittent type has set in, with its three distinct stages of cold and shivering, hot dry febrile skin, and perspiration, yet it is not by any means unusual for the fever again to relapse into a well defined remittent. Again, all types of intermittent are met with from the true tertian and quartan to fevers recurring at intervals of five and fifteen days; and, as a rule, few who have been seriously attacked completely shake off the disease until change of season has fairly set in, or until they remove from the locality.

21. Such is an account of the more urgent symptoms, but the complications and the sequelæ are of the highest importance. We have described this as essentially a congestive remittent fever, for the reason that the local organic congestions appear to be more marked and more formidable than are usually observed in the ordinary and less dangerous remittents of the country. During a first attack, as we have above noticed, the head is the seat of congestion. The eyes are bloodshot and aching, the face is suffused, delirium early ensues, and collapse terminating fatally in a few hours closes the scene. Next in urgency to the cerebral symptoms we have to deal with a highly congested state of the thoracic viscera, and with great difficulty of breathing, the air tubes being loaded with mucus, and death finally resulting from asphyxia. The abdominal viscera do not appear to be so frequently implicated during the earlier stages, but they are almost invariably affected during the later periods. When the disease has become chronic, and has assumed the intermittent type, enlarged spleens are the general rule. With this the liver also is frequently enlarged and congested, and the intestines are more or less implicated, chronic diarrhœa and even dysentery being no infrequent sequelæ. Anasarca and a general anæmic and emaciated condition are more or less seen in all these chronic cases, and the fatal result is, in the case of the majority of these debilitated wrecks, a mere question of time.

22. In the total absence of any statistics of population it is impossible to arrive at even an approximate calculation of the proportion of deaths to the mass of the people or to the numbers of the sick. It would be most interesting and instructive to ascertain the several proportions of deaths to seizures in the early stage, from the second to the fifth day, from that period to the fifteenth day, and so on throughout the several stages of the disease. But we are unable to do more than hazard a conjecture as to the total mortality in certain villages during certain intervals of time, and upon that conjecture ground the conclusion that these villages have been visited by a disease which, in its recent virulent and fatal form, was previously unknown in them. To this, however, we shall recur presently.

23. Such is a general, and, we believe, an accurate, account of the symptoms and progress of this fever. We now proceed to the consideration of our second head, viz.:—

Its history, and the degree of its similarity to other febrile epidemics which have taken place in this country. The popular notion entertained of this fever is that it is essentially a new disease. The Natives speak of it as a "nutan jwar," or new fever, and state that they have known nothing so fatal in former times. But it does not appear in point of fact to be either a new or unknown disease, although it certainly has not been known in the villages we have visited in the aggravated form lately witnessed. A similar disease appeared in the neighbourhood of Berhampore, at Cossim Bazar, upwards of sixty years ago. Its course appears to have been similar to that of the fever now under discussion, and it was at least equally fatal. Further, the causes assigned for its appearance are not dissimilar to those we shall have to notice as having contributed to produce the present epidemic. Baboo Degumber Mitter, who speaks from personal knowledge, has supplied the Commission with an account of the fever referred to. (For this account see Appendix I. at the end of this Report.)

24. In Jessore also, in Purneah, in Rungpore, and in fact in most of the low inundated Districts between the Hooghly and the Berhampooter, severe remittent and intermittent fevers have broken out, appearing in some places with greater intensity than in others, but seldom with any complete cessation during the whole period of their continuance except during the hot dry months. Dr. Elliot in his Report informs us that a peculiar fever called, like the present epidemic, "jwar bekár," was prevalent in 1824-25 in the Jessore District, and was very fatal at the Village of Mahomedpore, on the banks of the large River Elloukali, and that it was seen along the Chitra River, and at Nuldanga on the Baeng Nuddee. The well-known fevers of Purneah and Rungpore are of a similar character, and have been known to rage with equal violence and fatality. We may assume, therefore, that the present fever is, if not identical with, at least so similar to the remittent fevers of the Eastern Districts, that it may fairly be considered as of the same class; that it is in fact the true remittent fever of Bengal, and endemic. But that it has assumed an epidemic character, and has slowly, but surely, extended itself into localities previously exempted from this aggravated type of disease is a fact which must be admitted. Dr. Elliot clearly traces it from Gudkhali, a large and populous village situated on the swampy banks of a nullah, and surrounded by low marshy ground. In 1840 this village was almost depopulated. From Gudkhali the fever appears to have travelled westward, and in 1845-46 Sreenugger, a large village some twenty-five miles distant, was attacked. Here the fever raged for several years, and having carried off about three quarters of the inhabitants, it extended eastward to the neighbouring villages of Gopalnuggur, Balerampore, and others which still suffer; southward to Digreeah, Chowbariah, and other places on the Jaboona River; and northward to Simooleah, Gansara, and other villages within a circle of about five miles. It seems after that to have become much more generally diffused. About the year 1850-51 it is heard of at Gourpotha, twelve miles north-east of Sreenuggur. It then spread westward through the Villages of Deboogram, Majerkali, Mooragatchea, and others in that quarter, and after nearly depopulating many of them reached Oollah at the commencement of the rainy season of 1856. From this place the epidemic seems to have diffused itself over the southern part of Nudden, the north-eastern part of Hooghly, and pretty generally over the whole Sub-Division of Baraset. Northwards from Oollah it extended towards Kishnaghur, which place and the adjoining villages have suffered very severely during the past year. Southward from Oollah the epidemic extended towards Chogdah, which extensive and populous town has been most severely visited. It reached Chogdah in July 1857. From Chogdah the fever extended along the east bank of the river in a southerly direction, the line of villages including Sooksagur and Kanchrapara in the Nuddea District, and Hallishahur and Nyehattee, &c., in Baraset, suffering heavily. During 1860 Kantalpara, Bhatpara, and others further south on the Hooghly were attacked, and since then the disease has gradually found its way into Jagardiah, Atpore, Sarulia, and Mootapore.

25. Along the west bank of the river the epidemic has shewn itself in a very virulent form, laying waste the populous Villages of Kenta, (adjoining Bandel,) Bansbaria, Trebeni, &c. Dr. Elliot remarks that, though intermittent fever of a severe type seems to have been prevalent in the neighbourhood of Hooghly, still the disease did not appear there as an epidemic until the commencement of the rains of 1860. From Trebeni the epidemic spread along the western bank of the river to Culna in the Burdwan District, all the intermediate villages being more or less severely attacked. From Balaghur, a large village on the river about twenty miles north of Hooghly, the epidemic stretched inland in a westerly direction, attacking the several villages between Balaghur and the large Town of Pundooah on the East Indian Railway; and then skipping over a number of villages to the west and south, it broke out in a concentrated form at Dwarbashini, a large village situated seven miles south-west of Pundooah, and standing upon more elevated ground than any of the localities previously mentioned. Returning to Oollah we trace the epidemic inland in a southerly direction to Goipara, Bara Jagoolee, and Duapore; to Baraset and the neighbouring villages; and especially along the course of the Sultee Nuddee.

26. From the above it appears pretty clear that the present epidemic can be certainly traced back to Gudkhali in the year 1845; that it had extended to Oollah in 1857; and that it has since encircled a large tract of surrounding country. But in specifying Gudkhali as the starting point of the epidemic now under consideration, we would by no means imply that it originated there, but merely regard this point as a westerly limit of the tract which forms the proper domain of the remittent fever peculiar to the eastern inundated Districts, from which point the fever has now gradually extended in a westward and south-westward direction.

27. The particular seasons at which year by year the epidemic has appeared, reached its height, and again disappeared in the various villages attacked by it, form an important subject for observation. The information received on this point has been precise and uniform. In the month of May, and even in April, after the first falls of rain, severe cases have been noticed, but they have been generally too few in number to cause much alarm. Seizures, however, have become more and more frequent during the next two or three months, until in August or September the disease has reached its full height. Heavy mortality has lasted until November, when it has begun to abate, and by the end of December almost complete cessation has taken place, to continue until the succeeding May. Again it must be observed that the first season has generally been less fatal to the invaded village than the second. After periods, too, of from two to six years the disease has apparently left the infected village altogether. But we fear that this result is quite as much attributable to the disappearance of the inhabitants as to any accession of salubrity to its climate. An allowance must also undoubtedly be made for the gradual acclimatisation of a number of the survivors.

28. We proceed to consider our third head—"The predisposing and exciting causes at work."

In entering upon this inquiry it is, we consider, of importance that we should, as clearly as possible, explain certain Laws which are now recognised as regulating the course of diseases of both an epidemic and endemic character, and shew the causes without the existence of one or more of which such diseases would, in all probability, be unknown.

29. The existence of a peculiar agent, which is generated in a manner which is very imperfectly understood, and the constitution of which is equally uncertain, but which is called miasm or malaria, is by all who have studied the subject allowed to be the chief source of endemic and epidemic diseases. It would be foreign to our present purpose to discuss the various theories which have from time to time been offered, and received as worthy of the attention of scientific men, regarding the actual nature and constitution of miasm; but it may be accepted as fully established that the conditions which are necessary to generate this miasm "belong to the localities which are affected and not to the inhabitants" (Alison); and further, that to whatever extent accumulations of organic matter, animal or vegetable, or both, may tend to produce disease generally, and aid in keeping up and strengthening true epidemics, yet the products of such accumulations are not essential to the existence of true miasm. It appears to be a substance sui generis, probably generated in the soil, and apparently requiring at least one agent for its creation in large quanties, viz., damp. As a rule it is found to exist in a concentrated form, and "diseases are most prevalent in situations where moisture is most easily and most copiously generated, in valleys, on the banks of rivers, near shallow marshes, in the vicinity of mangrove plants, and where a favorable condition of the surface exists to accelerate the process of evaporation" (Craig on Epidemics.) Malaria is extricated from the margins of large lakes and the banks of rivers. Mr. Parkins, in his Work on the "Causation of diseases," remarks as follows:—"Let but the smallest portion of the margin or the muddy surface of a lake become exposed, and the poison will, if the temperature of the atmosphere be sufficiently high, be immediately evolved." Miasm again is given out from, and exists in greatest amount on, alluvial soils; the embouchures of rivers; and specially in the beds of old rivers which have silted up, or are gradually filling up, and leave extensive areas of half dried land exposed to the influence of heat; from "irrigated and partially inundated lands, or such as are traversed by percolating streams or by canals; in wooded Districts termed jungles; or in certain Hill Districts. The seaboard, especially where there is jungle or salt marsh, and the adjacent islands when of a jungly or marshy nature are peculiarly pestilential, and so are often found drying-up marshes, and the drying-up beds of rivers" (Martin on Influence of Tropical Climates.)

30. An admitted property of miasm is that, except when much rarified by heat, it is specifically heavier than atmospheric air, and is consequently found in the lowest strata of the atmosphere. It has a tendency to float along the surface of the ground, and to gravitate into fissures, ravines, and holes. It exists in a more concentrated form immediately over the earth's surface during the night than in the day time, and the most dangerous hours in malarious tracts are those between sunset and sunrise. As the sun gains power the miasm, like aqueous vapor, appears to be elevated into the higher regions of the air, and to become greatly diluted. It is thus rendered more and more innocuous until the evening, when, the temperature being again lowered, it gravitates again and collects on the earth's surface.

31. The searching investigation which has been made into the sources and qualities of malaria has enabled scientific men to arrive at a number of laws which appear to regulate its production and distribution. Some of these laws we enumerate:—

Law 1.—The malarious poison, although not confined to such situations, is extricated in greatest abundance from low, marshy, and alluvial soils.

Law 2.—Malaria is extricated from all wet lands, the muddy surfaces of marshes, and the slimy banks of lakes and rivers during what has been termed the drying process.

Law 3.—Malaria is never extricated from the surface of water under any conditions whatever so long as the particles of that fluid hold together.

Law 4.—Malaria becomes innocuous at a certain distance from the source whence it is given out.

Law 5.—The specific gravity of malaria is greater than that of atmospheric air.

Law 6.—The interposition of a forest, a mountain, a wall, or even a mere cloth, is sometimes sufficient to preserve an individual or individuals from the pernicious effects of miasmata given out on the opposite side.

32. This malaria must be recognised as existing in great quantity over the tract of country at present suffering from the epidemic, and as owing its excessive production mainly to the increasingly deficient natural and artificial drainage of the country, in consequence of which the soil is kept saturated with moisture for a much longer period after falls of rain than it would be were the surface water more rapidly removed.

33. We now proceed to notice other local conditions and other agents which are individually and collectively powerful aids to miasm. We assume that air, light, and water are essential for the preservation of life; that if any one or all of these are polluted or deficient the result is directly and immediately injurious to the health of animate beings; and that if this pollution and deficiency be excessive, actual disease and death must ensue: that, on the other hand, if we could obtain sufficient light, pure air, clean water, and adequate ventilation, we should reduce epidemics to almost an insignificant quantity. Now in the villages throughout Bengal, and in a most marked degree in those lately visited by us, there is neither sufficient light, pure air, clean water, nor adequate ventilation. Thick closely packed trees and bamboo clumps, standing in dense masses of low jungle, crowd the villages and prevent anything approaching to a free current of air through them. The atmosphere is preceptibly damp and heavy, and over large areas the direct rays of the sun never penetrate through the overhanging foliage. The ventilation of the houses of all classes is deficient; is in fact totally ignored, as we have above observed. As for the water used by the inhabitants for domestic purposes, it would be impossible to imagine anything more utterly unfit than, as a general rule, it is for the purpose. We have pointed out that the erection of a hut necessitates the digging of an adjacent hole. Every village is honey-combed with such holes. There are other larger holes, formerly, no doubt, deserving the name of tanks, which have gradually silted up, and from these holes and old tanks the people obtain their drinking water. Upon this evil we have enlarged above (paragraph 17). It is only necessary to add that from the margins of these pools emanations from decayed and decaying vegetable matter consequently rise to taint the air, and aid the deleterious effect of the miasm, which, as we have observed, is being constantly given out from the soil. Vegetable decomposition again and its products are not the only impurities we meet with. In the Mahomedan quarters of villages the dead are constantly buried on the very borders of the tanks. Here and there cemeteries are to be found, but even in those places they are not exclusively resorted to. Graves may be seen scattered about in every direction; and these graves are seldom made sufficiently deep to ensure the people against poisonous exhalations from the interred bodies. The bodies lie so near the surface that sometimes, as is well known, they are disinterred by jackals and dogs. The Hindoos in ordinary times pretend to burn their dead, but even at such times only a few bodies are effectually destroyed. In most cases the half burnt remains are left to be devoured by birds and animals, and many bodies are simply thrown away, without funeral rites of any kind, into nullahs and rivers. In times of great mortality Hindoos and Mussulmans alike abandon all attempt to dispose of their dead with respect and decency, and bodies are recklessly thrown out in all directions, poisoning the air for miles with the foulest effluvia.

34. To enlarge further on the prolific sources of impurity and contamination which exist in all these villages would be superfluous. The appearance of the villages speaks for itself to the most casual observer. The only wonder is, that people of weakly constitutions, subsisting on farinaceous diet, residing in a malarious climate, and shutting out from themselves the air and light of heaven, and drinking poisoned water, have not suffered even more extensively. But, it may be urged, all these causes of disease have been in operation for many years in many places which have never until lately been attacked by depopulating sickness, and are now in operation in a number of places which are still free from the scourge. Why, then, lay so much stress on these facts in accounting for the present epidemic? The objection, however, is not so strong as it appears at first sight. We have already pointed out that the fever we have been observing is by no means a new or unrecognised disease, and that other parts of Bengal have been from time to time devastated to an equal, if not a greater, extent. The mortality at Cossim Bazar sixty years ago, where the same causes as those just considered were at work, we understand to have been even greater than any that we have lately witnessed. In Purneah every now and then we hear of these deadly outbreaks of remittent fever, the country being absolutely strewn with dead and dying. So in Rungpore and Jessore, in the low ill-ventilated villages lying along particular nullahs and half stagnant rivers, such as the Baeng Nuddee, the upper Nobogunga, the Bhoirab, and the Chitra. The fact is that in the tract of country which has been of late so severely suffering, as in the other tracts which we have mentioned, the various causes of disease have ever existed; but within the last few years they have been gradually culminating until in one place after another the turning point has been reached, and villages the previous exemption of which had served to conceal the fact of their increasing liability to it have been swept by the pestilence. It must be specially observed that the instances in which the visitation has come without any warning are very few. In one village after another the story has been told of one or two years of progressively increasing illness preceding the year in which the epidemic has burst forth with overwhelming force.

35. In speaking of the causes of epidemic fevers, and of the present fever specially, we have omitted to notice the effect of contagion. Our enquiries have not established the contagious nature of this fever. On the contrary a remarkable circumstance related to us at Gram Culna seems to bear evidence to its absolutely non-contagious character. We were informed that a considerable number of people, residents of a village named Kooroona, situated at some little distance, attended a "shrad" at Gram Culna; that while there they all fell sick; some died there, others returned to their own village, and they also subsequently died. But the disease did not spread in Kooroona; no inhabitant of that village who had not gone to Gram Culna caught it. We can hardly credit the assertion that all the visitors from Kooroona to Gram Culna died, and we could not ascertain the actual number. But the story at all events seems to shew that the disease was not transferred by contagion from the one village to the other. Kooroona stands high and is free from excessive vegetation, and the tanks are comparatively clear and open. Viewing contagion in the widest meaning usually attached to the term, we have no sufficient grounds for stating that it is characteristic of the present fever. Still it is highly probable that the disease may be directly communicated by the effluvia of numerous sick persons congregated together in small ill-ventilated houses.

36. A highly important subject in connection with the history of epidemics is the meteorology of the country in which they occur. But with reference to this branch of our subject we regret that we have not been able to collect data on which to found any certain practical conclusions. Minute and trustworthy meteorological observations have not been made in Bengal; and as the general progress of the present fever does not appear to have been affected in any marked degree by the great variations which have undoubtedly occurred in the seasons during the last eight or ten years, any detailed consideration of the probable effects of such variations upon the public health would be little better than useless speculation. We have already referred to the stages of gradual increase, greatest intensity, subsidence, and complete cessation which generally characterize the course of the disease throughout the twelve months from May to April. We may here add that the mortality is to a great extent kept up during the cold weather by the fatal termination of chronic cases.

37. Having thus far discussed the chief causes of the prevailing epidemic, we might conveniently proceed to draw some practical conclusions as to the measures which suggest themselves for their removal. But, following in regular order the subjects of inquiry enumerated in the Government letter, we defer this branch of the subject for consideration in our answer to Question 22 below.

38. The disease appears to have attacked all classes of people, Hindoo and Mahomedan, rich and poor, men, women, and children, indiscriminately, but the mortality has naturally been greatest among the poorer classes. The total mortality in each village and throughout the whole infected tract is a point on which we can only hazard a very uncertain conjecture. The remarks on this head, contained in Dr. Elliot's Report already referred to, are accurately descriptive of the then existing and of the present state of matters. He writes:—"Many large large 'baries' in which there were formerly thirty or forty residents have now been left with perhaps one solitary occupant, whole mohullas and streets have been deserted, and large villages which formerly told their residents by thousands can now almost number them by hundreds." The total population of Oollah was stated to have been 18,000 to 20,000 before it was attacked, and it was calculated that at least 12,000 of these had fallen victims within six years. The Village of Sreenugger has been almost depopulated. At Culna three-fourths of the inhabitants have been carried off. Upon the whole we believe that above 30 per cent of the whole population of the infected area have died.

(17.) Whether the rich as well as the poor are subject to it, Musselmen as well as Hindoos? Whether any particular case and class or classes have more easily succumbed to the disease, or been more free from it than others.

39. In prosecuting our inquiries as to the influence of sex and age upon the susceptibility of individuals to attack we ascertained that pregnant women constantly miscarried after or during an attack; and that it was believed that children born at the full period of fever-stricken mothers had, in some rare instances, been born with enlarged spleens. If this be true, it proves that the disease of the mother had been communicated to the child "in utero." Very young infants were frequently attacked. It was further remarked that in diseased villages very few births took place—a very natural circumstance when the state of the surviving adults is taken into consideration.

40. We fear that, even under ordinary circumstances, there is a deplorable want of efficient attendance on the sick; but when an epidemic rages, and large numbers have been attacked, the attendance is of the most wretched description. This is not to be ascribed to want of feeling on the part of friends but to want of ability. There are no charitable hospitals for the poor, and of medical aid there is generally none deserving the appellation, except where dispensaries have been established by Government. The more affluent members of the community can and do command such Native medical aid as is available, and on such aid they, as a rule, solely rely, and they of course are able to procure sufficient personal attendance.

IV.—Attendance upon the Sick.

(18.) As to how the sick are attended to and looked after in their own houses.

41. The sympathies of the wealthier classes have been to a very slight degree enlisted in favor of their poorer neighbours. Indeed in most places the efforts made by the Zemindars and other well-to-do people in the Mofussil to assist their ryots may be, without injustice, described as 'nil.' It is to be feared that in some instances where collections of money have been made to defray the expense of sanatory improvements, contributions have been extorted from those who were ill able to pay them, while the richer inhabitants put their names down in the subscription list for sums of the insignificance of which they ought to have been ashamed, and the full amounts of which they did not, in point of fact, subsequently pay up.

(19.) To what extent the sympathies of the wealthy classes have been enlisted in aid of the poor during the epidemic? Describe the steps they have taken with this view?

42. These remarks must not, indeed, be considered of universal application. Some exceptions stand out in pleasing relief, and we would willingly record them, but that in so doing we should bring forward individual names without sufficient warranty. We have already mentioned the charitable exertions made at Kishnaghur to aid the suffering poor.

43. The Native Doctors appointed to the charge of the dispensaries in the Districts affected by the fever are, as a general rule, of little use, except where they are strictly supervised. Of those at present employed under Dr. Elliot he can only refer to two as having done really good service; viz., Broja Lall Dass, at Trebeni, and Sheikh Jellalooddeen, at Balaghur, both in the District of Hooghly. Both these men he considers very intelligent, well qualified, and thoroughly trustworthy, and deserving of better appointments than they now hold. The others, he believes, are hardly known beyond the limits of the villages in which they happen to have been located, and some of them are not well spoken of even in those villages. The Sub-Assistant Surgeons he considers to have been a complete failure. The two sent to Purbastolee both left their posts after a very short residence. Dr. Elliot further observes:—"The general complaint is, that there is a want of European medicines. To this I can only reply that if all the medicines supplied by Government, and distributed month by month from this Office, had been properly administered, the result ought to have been most satisfactory. Unfortunately this has not been the case, and I am therefore led to suppose that in many instances medicines have either not been administered at all, or have been sold to such only as are able to pay for them."

(20.) Whether the Sub-Assistant-Surgeons and Native Doctors appointed to the charge of dispensaries for the relief of the poor take an interest in their duty? Describe results when this form of relief has been available, shewing to what extent it has proved successful or otherwise in checking the progress of the disease?

44. The means already adopted with a view to putting a check on the progress of the epidemic have been, in their general object and intention, good and sound, but they have hitherto proved insufficient, and that for fully adequate reasons. Contributions have been levied in several villages, and these have been supplemented by certain grants from public funds for the purpose of carrying out sanatory improvements. By an expenditure of this money jungle has been in many places extensively cut down; small filthy pools have been filled up; some larger and better tanks have been cleared; in some places roadways have been raised or newly constructed, and some attempt made to render the small excavations along their sides available for purposes of drainage. Many of these operations, especially the cleansing and filling up of tanks and pools, have been most proper and well-devised, and the burden of proving that they have been altogether useless lies on those who make the assertion. But that they have not yet been effectual in putting any sensible check on the progress of the epidemic is, in our opinion, mainly owing to the following causes :—

1*st.*—The attention of the Local Authorities has been specially drawn to the subject only during the last three years, and at first sanatory measures were attempted only in a few isolated places where the epidemic had already broken out. As the fever spread sanatory operations were undertaken with greater energy, and in a greater number of villages, but still not on a scale commensurate with the growing magnitude of the evil. Now, wherever the fever has attacked a village with great violence, nearly the whole population have been seized,—one-third, one-half, or more, have died off at once, and the rest have been left with shattered constitutions and many forms of chronic disease, from the effects of which great mortality has continued among them during the next and following years. No sanatory measures can be expected to save the lives of people upon whom the first blow of such a calamity has fallen. Sanatory measures to produce extensively good results must be preventive rather than remedial. Except in a very few instances no such preventive measures have been adopted, and those only on a small scale.

2*nd.*—But villages which are now almost depopulated will be gradually filled again with inhabitants, unless fresh attacks of the epidemic carry off or irremediably debilitate the few survivors who have altogether escaped its ravages, or entirely recovered from its effects. To save these people is an object of unspeakable importance ; and as a means to this end the sanatory operations already undertaken in villages which have seemed hitherto to derive little or no benefit from them must be regarded as so much real and valuable gain, in so far, that is, as they have been conducted in a judicious and efficient manner. To say, then, that such operations have failed, is merely to say that they have not had time to succeed.

3*rd.*—But it must be admitted that these measures, where they have been initiated, have not been carried out with sufficient judgment and intelligence, or on a sufficiently extended scale. For this the Local Authorities, we submit, are not to blame. The work requires a minute supervision, which it is impossible for Magistrates, occupied as they are with their numerous other duties, to exercise, and an agency and funds which are not at their disposal for the purpose.

Under the circumstances we do not think it wonderful that so little visible good result has been produced over a large tract of country by the exertions of a handful of Officers.

45. In reply to the first of the two inquiries contained in this section we beg to offer the following remarks :—We believe that in Calcutta the Native population commonly employ qualified medical practitioners. Such practitioners, too, undoubtedly find ample occupation wherever they set up for themselves in the Mofussil, so much so indeed that the public service is suffering from the exodus of many of its best Native Doctors, who, after having gained a certain amount of experience in Government employ, find it to their interest to retire and practise on their own account. There are also acknowledged "Hukeems" and "Koberajes," who are quite competent to treat disease successfully. But there are hundreds of utterly unqualified persons engaged in distributing drugs throughout the country,—men who know little or nothing of medicine beyond the names of the drugs they use, and who, instead of affording relief to the suffering, screw the last pice out of them, and hasten and embitter their passage to the grave. We were credibly informed that one of these impostors purchased an ounce of quinine in Calcutta for Rupees 5, went into the Mofussil with it and returned with a clear profit of Rupees 50 on his speculation. And even a Mehter, who had been discharged from Dr. ————'s employ, tried his hand, with considerable pecuniary success, on the higher occupation of physicking. This being the case the question arises, should Government not lend a helping hand to protect the qualified practitioners and put down the ignorant and mischievous quack ? It is evident, indeed, that little can be done without the co-operation of the people themselves. And if, in the opinion of Government, legislation in this direction be advisable, whether by the introduction of a system of registration of qualified Doctors, or otherwise, a careful inquiry should be made, and the fullest publicity given to the intentions of Government, in order to elicit the opinions and wishes of the people on the subject. We believe that some action of the kind might be taken with very advantageous results, but we are not in a position to consider in detail a question of such great importance and requiring such extensive and minute investigation.

(22.) Suggest any measures that may, on full consideration of the results of the past, appear to be likely to ameliorate the present condition of these Districts both in the form of providing some generally available means of procuring medical advice and attendance, and also in introducing a practical system of sanitary reform ?

46. In the event, however, of a future spread of the epidemic to places hitherto unaffected by it measures should be at once adopted to afford the inhabitants better medical attendance than is at present available. On this point Dr. Elliot remarks :—"I think that a staff of good Native Doctors, with perhaps one Sub-Assistant Surgeon to a Circle of five or six villages, should be appointed and located in central places at the very commencement of the outbreak. A full supply of the most necessary medicines should be made available, and the whole ought to be placed under the superintendence of an Assistant-Surgeon selected specially for the purpose. Mere temporary supervision is of little or no use, as orders given during a cursory visit to a dispensary are often either forgotten, or simply disregarded if they do not suit the fancy or convenience of the Native Doctor. Should the disease appear at places far distant from each other, the Superintendent could move from place to place, remaining at each so long as he may think necessary." In these recommendations we all fully agree with Dr. Elliot.

47. The remarks which we have recorded upon the present sanitary condition of the villages visited by us indicate of themselves, to a great extent, the measures which should be adopted to improve that condition. Before proceeding to discuss those measures specifically, it will be well shortly to recapitulate the causes to which we have been led to ascribe the prevailing sickness. They are—

(I.)—Miasm.
(II.)—Polluted drinking water.
(III.)—Vitiated air and deficient ventilation.

(IV.)—The excessive use of farinaceous food.
(V.)—(To a slight extent) contagion.

48. Our first object must be to reduce, as much as possible, the supply of miasm. Again assuming, as scientific researches justify us in assuming, that moisture in the soil is the grand source of malarious exhalations, and remembering that those exhalations rise from the ground principally during the drying process, and in much less quantity when the country is extensively inundated, we are led at once to the conclusion that any means by which this drying process can be accelerated and shortened will produce a pro tanto diminishing effect on the total amount of miasm generated. To effect this object the obvious course is to improve the drainage of the country. No doubt considerable difficulty will be experienced in carrying out measures undertaken for this purpose in consequence of the very circumstances which have rendered those measures so imperatively necessary. The gradual silting up of rivers and khals, and the general assimilation of levels, to which we have before alluded as having been gradually taking place of late years, has of itself reduced the facilities, which might formerly have existed, for effecting a regular and rapid removal of the surface water from the villages upon the subsidence of the inundation. But the difficulty will be probably nowhere found insurmountable. There is still everywhere a sufficient inequality of level to admit of the surface water being quickly and effectually carried off if the natural all of the ground be judiciously assisted by artificial means. We do not think it would be possible to dig out the old nullahs and khals, but they might be deepened in many places, and all absolute obstructions to their course, such as embankments, completely removed. They might thus be converted into large efficient surface drains, and would be available as the basis of a general system of drainage in all the villages situated along their banks. With a view to improving the internal drainage of particular villages we would strongly recommend the construction of open water-ways, so arranged that the surface water within the village should be carried by them directly to any neighbouring river, khal, or bheel that may be available, or failing such to some one or more low pools or tanks outside the village. The object cannot be attained satisfactorily by draining the village into tanks situated within its boundaries, for at the season when means of carrying off the surface water are most urgently called for, these tanks are for the most part full, and the flow of water through the drains would be stopped, or from time to time even reversed. The diversion of the surface drainage from the tanks to low grounds outside the village would also tend to diminish the injurious process of diluvion by which the tanks are constantly being filled up with the debris of their banks. It would also obviate, to a great extent, the accumulation of refuse matter of all kinds in the water used by the inhabitants for drinking and washing purposes.

49. In many places along the banks of the Hooghly we were informed that the drainage of the country had been seriously obstructed by the Railway embankments. As to the truth of this statement we have been unable to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion, because the effect of the embankments upon the subsidence of the surface water can be made matter of direct observation only towards the end of the rainy season. Remembering, however, that the direction of the natural drainage of the villages situated along the river banks is inland, we have no difficulty in believing that it is impeded by the Railway embankments on both sides. The point should be carefully enquired into at the proper season of the year. We think it also highly desirable that, at the same season, the Local Authorities should be required carefully to examine whether, in the numerous new road-ways that have been constructed throughout the tract under observation, sufficient waterway has been allowed. For, though bridges and culverts are, we know, made wherever khals and nullahs intersect the roads, we have grave doubts whether the general course of the surface drainage over the country, and the necessity for allowing full and immediate passage for the whole mass of water, are points which receive much attention in surveying and preparing estimates for new roads. Some important information upon this point, contained in a memorandum supplied by Baboo Degumber Mitter, will be found in Appendix No. II.

50. We fear little can be done towards lessening the production of miasm or churs, and from the beds of rivers, beyond keeping them under cultivation. This is already done. Such lands are rich and valuable and are carefully cultivated.

51. For impeding the generation of miasm generally we have no recommendation to offer except the acceleration of the drying process at the end of the rains by artificial drainage. Some means, however, are at our disposal for the destruction or decomposition of the poison after it is formed. Miasm is decomposed by ozone, which is found ready formed in the atmosphere. It is also decomposed by carbon, and advantage should be taken of this fact by encouraging, as far as possible, the burning of weeds, dried grass, jungle, &c., and the lighting of fires in as close proximity to dwelling houses as may be compatible with their safety from conflagration. This practice should be especially followed during the most unhealthy months, and after nightfall. It is a simple and comfortable practice, and its good effects have been noticed over and over again wherever it has been adopted throughout the world. It is evident again, that miasm may be robbed of much of its deadly power by dilution and dispersion. Free exposure of the lowest stratum of the air to the sun's rays, and adequate ventilation, are the expedients which naturally suggest themselves. These we will consider in their proper place below.

52. In endeavoring to improve the general sanitary condition of villages, and so render the inhabitants less obnoxious to the evil influence of malaria, one of our principal objects should be to provide a full supply of pure drinking water. In every village certain tanks, in suitable situations, should be set apart for drinking water only. They should be made of sufficient depth, their banks should be sloped and turfed, and kept clean, and the surrounding ground should be kept clear of trees, bamboos, and jungle, in order that the water may not be rendered unwholesome by the constant fall of leaves from overhanging branches, and by accumulations of other vegetable debris. This cannot be effectually done unless these tanks are placed in charge of the Police, or in some other way constantly protected. Bathing and washing clothes in them should be absolutely prohibited, and they should be carefully cleaned out and deepened at stated periods.

53. We have stated that the people never filter or in any way purify the water they use for domestic purposes. We endeavored to ascertain whether public filters and reservoirs would be resorted to if they were so managed as to entail little expense, and were placed in the charge of persons of the same religious opinions as those for whose benefit they were constructed. The replies were unsatisfactory, and, as a Government measure, we do not think the plan would succeed.

54. The next desideratum in the order in which we have proposed for consideration is the purification of the air and its free passage through the villages and houses. It will have been already observed that we draw a marked distinction between miasm, properly so called, and general vitiation of the atmosphere. The latter may be produced by a number of separate or concomitant causes, and may be very prejudicial to health, whether the former extensively co-exist with it or no. It is a great mistake to confound malaria and effluvia, but many gaseous emanations, odorous and inodorous, besides true miasm, are injurious to the human frame, and render it more obnoxious to attacks of disease, however those attacks may be directly induced. On the other hand the measures which would tend to check the production and aid the dispersion of all such noxious emanations would also be of service in diminishing the supply of true malaria in the same localities.

55. The first thing to be done with a view to purify the air in these villages is to fill up the small filthy holes which abound in them, and to deepen and clear the larger pools and tanks. Any hope of fully and thoroughly carrying out this most necessary measure of sanitary reform we fear to be chimerical. Could the inhabitants themselves be brought to see the necessity for it, and to co-operate with the Authorities, something effectual might be done. A number of small holes might be filled up with the earth taken from a large tank newly constructed or deepened; and in building new houses the necessary excavations might be made in such a way as to assist the general drainage of the village, instead of forming fresh receptacles for dirty stagnant water. The open ground, and especially the edges of tanks, might be kept clear of at least the grosser forms of pollution, and people might be induced to resort to particular circumscribed localities for the deposit of household filth and refuse. But in spite of the generally prevailing apathy and the universal resistance to the smallest authoritative interference in the manner in which the occupants of land, whether of large or small extent, choose to dispose of it, we believe that a good deal may be done by firmness and perseverance. Before leaving this part of our subject we would suggest that a number of holes situated near the river bank might be filled up by connecting them with the river by small khals. A glance at the numerous brick fields along the river side will shew the effect produced by the silt annually deposited by the river in the pits from which the earth has been taken.

56. The question of jungle-clearing next claims attention. The main objects to be compassed in clearing away vegetation are the admission of the sun's rays to a sufficient proportion of the surface of the ground, and the removal of obstructions to a free passage of air. By effecting the first object we secure the more rapid evaporation of surface moisture, with a corresponding diminution in the total amount of miasma evolved during the process, and also the rarifaction and dilution of malaria and of other noxious vapors actually produced; and by carrying out the second object we assist materially the dispersion of all such vapors. We avoid entering into any discussion of the theory, originated some 1,800 years ago by Pliny, that vegetation absorbs miasm. Such may be the fact, but even if it be, there is no fear that any measures which may be adopted for the removal of jungle in Bengallee villages will ever reduce the total amount of vegetation below the point necessary to its efficiency as a malaria absorbent. On the other hand we desire to impress two facts strongly on those who may be entrusted with the duty of clearing jungle,—one, that living vegetation is never in itself a producing cause of malarious exhalations; and the other, that in certain situations it acts most beneficially as a mechanical bar to the spread of miasm generated in its neighbourhood, and a belt of thick trees and jungle may, therefore, be a great protection to a village instead of a source of unhealthiness. It is so wherever it is interposed between the village and a more malarious tract in its vicinity. Decaying vegetable matter, however, is always injurious, and measures should be adopted to oblige the occupants of lands to keep their orchards and bamboo plantations clear of the thick accumulations of fallen branches and leaves which in most places completely conceal the ground. With this a great deal of the low brushwood, which so greatly favors such accumulation, may doubtless be removed with great advantage. But, as we have already intimated, we recommend the use of the greatest caution and judgment in cutting down growing vegetation. Wherever it is cut down it should be burnt, and the cleared ground cultivated. It is true that freshly turned soil is itself sometimes a source of noxious exhalations, but this is a passing evil, and not at all as serious as the evil to be anticipated from the rapid fresh growth of the jungle which invariably takes place on ground where clearing operations have not been supplemented by the uprooting of the numerous plants which have been cut down.

57. Some well-devised measures should be carried out in all large villages for the proper disposal of dead bodies. In Mussulman quarters particular sites, well removed from any drinking water tank, should be selected for burial grounds. They should be situated on the north and west sides of the villages, so as to be to leeward during the rainy season, and the burial of dead bodies in any other places should be prohibited. The burial grounds themselves should, of course, be kept in the charge of Mahomedans, who should receive some regular remuneration; and it should be their duty to see that the graves were dug of a proper depth. We would suggest four feet as the minimum. The burial expenses of paupers should be borne by the villages to which they belong, or be defrayed from any municipal or other funds that may be available. In Hindoo quarters the universal and effectual disposal of corpses by cremation is an object which should receive most careful attention from the Local Authorities. The burning of bodies should be confined to particular spots, and those places should be placed in the charge of persons responsible to Government Officers for the proper and thorough destruction of bodies, and for the general cleanliness of the spots used for the purpose. Such arrangements will involve, as in the case of burial grounds, certain public and private expenditure. The exact manner in which the necessary funds should be provided it does not seem within our province to discuss. We cannot, however, urge too strongly the necessity for the adoption of the measures we have recommended under this head.

58. The general progress of sickness is doubtless much accelerated by the collection of numbers of sick in close ill-ventilated houses. To induce the villagers generally to adopt some other plan of construction in building their huts we fear would be a hopeless attempt. They are wedded to old custom, and cannot be persuaded to abandon it. If, however, the occasion be considered as sufficiently grave to warrant what would otherwise be an arbitary and vexatious interference with private preferences, we have no doubt that the adoption of some means of ventilation in the construction of new houses might be readily enforced by Law. The occasion is a grave one, but we are scarcely prepared to recommend the employment of such unusual measures to meet it.

59. We have alluded to the excessive use of farinaceous food as a predisposing cause of disease, but we need not enlarge on this point, as it would be manifestly absurd to expect that the people of this country could be persuaded to make any material alteration in their diet.

60. It can hardly be said that any mode of treatment hitherto adopted has proved altogether successful, probably because few of those who recover from the first attacks of fever are able to remove from the localities in which they were first taken ill, and in which the exciting causes of the disease in all probability continue to exist in full force, and so all who have once suffered are liable to constant relapses, which debilitate and eventually wear out the system. A large proportion, too, of the most virulent cases have terminated fatally before any medical aid could be obtained beyond what is at hand in almost every large village, and it is to be feared that the fatal result has frequently been hastened, rather than retarded, by unsuitable and untimely interference.

(28.) What mode of treatment has proved most successful hitherto, and what may be, on the fullest consideration of the subject, most strongly recommended for future adoption with regard to available means and the circumstances of the affected localities?

61. Experience has shewn that in the treatment of all cases it is necessary in the first place to regulate the bowels. For this purpose Rhubarb, Scammony, and Soda appear to be most suitable. To these, in the absence of spleen, a grain or so of Calomel may be added. After this small doses of Ipecacuanha Powder, Soda and Nitre, or any of the other drugs which are known to lower the pulse and favor cutaneous action, should be administered. The application of cold to the shaven head, and sponging the body with Nitro Muriatic Acid and water, or with vinegar and water, prove useful; and cooling or effervescent draughts relieve nausea and abate thirst. These, repeated from time to time as circumstances may demand, seem to be the chief remedies which are of any service. But it must be borne in mind that, do what we may, the disease must in all probability run a certain course, which is neither to be accelerated nor retarded by any means within our reach. After, therefore, placing the sick in a condition as favorable to recovery as circumstances admit, it appears that we must proceed to a great extent on the expectant system, save the strength as much as possible by avoiding the use of unnecessary medicines, such as strong or drastic purgatives which debilitate and depress the system, and guard, if possible, the functions necessary to life from sustaining serious injury. It is also necessary to observe the prevalent type of fever, and to note carefully the mode in which the fatal result or the most serious organic lesion most usually takes place.

62. Cases are not frequently met with without some complication existing from the first, and if, as is constantly the case, the tendency is to cerebral or pulmonary congestion, these local inflammations must be met by antiphlogistic remedies in the ordinary way. In the case of cerebral congestion, saving the head, cold douche, application of ice or a few leeches or (later) a blister to the head, purging if there is no previous diarrhœa, so as to produce one or two fluid motions daily, are the remedies most urgently demanded. Placing the feet in hot water once or twice daily is also productive of benefit in such cases. Chest complications are to be met by Ipecacuanha or the Tartrate of Antimony, externally by Turpentine fomentations, and afterwards by counter-irritation with blisters, &c.

63. The greatest tendency in the course of the fever is to congestion of the liver or spleen, or of both, to obviate which all remedies seem to have failed. With each relapse of fever there appears to be a fresh tendency to sub-acute inflammation and consequent enlargement of the spleen, until at last a sort of local inflammatory action of low grade seems to be established, to which, perhaps, the successive attacks of fever are in some measure to be attributed.

64. In the absence of actual fever bitter tonics, with Iron, Quinine, and the Mineral Acids, prove useful. The greatest benefit seems to be derived from a combination of Carbonate of Iron, Quinine, Rhubarb, and Soda, to which a little Compound Jalap Powder may be added occasionally. In the intermittent type of fever, after the bowels are regulated, Quinine is the only antiperiodic which is of any service whatever; and even its effects seem to be only temporary, for, notwithstanding the steady use of it for days, fresh attacks of fever occur at intervals of from ten to fifteen days, attended with further congestion and enlargement of the spleen or liver, or both, till at last the system is worn out and dropsy, diarrhœa, dysentery, or some of the other sequelæ terminate an existence of protracted misery.

65. In conclusion we have only to plead the magnitude of our subject as our excuse for having so far exceeded the limits usually assigned to the length of an official Report.

APPENDIX I.

Statement furnished by BABOO DEGUMBER MITTER relative to the epidemic fever at Cossim Bazar and the neighbouring Villages.

CHOWKHALLY, Bhautpara, Cossim Bazar, Kalkapore, Bamunghatta, and Furreshdanga were situated on a curve of the River Hooghly until a straight cut was made some sixty years since forming the chord of the curve, thus changing the course of the river and throwing those places inland. This engineering operation was closely followed by the breaking out of an epidemic in all those places which, in its virulence and mortality, is unparalleled by any pestilential visitation in Bengal, saving perhaps that which depopulated Gour.* During its rage cremation or burial in due form was found impracticable, and the dead are said to have been carried in cart loads to be disposed of any how; and thus the City of Cossim Bazar, once noted for its commercial importance, the extent and magnitude of which is said to have called into existence upwards of a hundred shroffs or banking firms to meet the monetary requirements of the same, was reduced, within the short space of five years, to almost a deserted waste.

This fever continues there to the present time, shewing that its causes are still in active operation. In other respects Cossim Bazar does not at all differ from any healthy Town in Bengal. Its waters, vegetation, houses, and the mode of life of its inhabitants are exactly alike; but no man sojourning there even for a day can help being struck with the extreme dampness which is felt even during the hottest months of the year. This dampness can only arise from excessive moisture in the sub-soil, owing to the disturbance in the drainage of the place, occasioned, most probably, by the diversion in the course of the river, aided perhaps by a number of roads running transversely to the direction of the drainage. How caused it is not easy at this distance of time correctly to trace, and perhaps immaterial to our present enquiry. Enough that the place is extremely damp. This is undeniable, and I think it is likewise undeniable that this extreme dampness is owing to an excess of moisture in the soil.

APPENDIX II.

Memorandum supplied by BABOO DEGUMBER MITTER relative to certain obstructions to the drainage of the epidemic Districts.

THE drainage of all the villages in the epidemic Districts, as elsewhere in Lower Bengal, is effected by the water first running into the nearest paddy fields lying in the direction of their slope, thence it collects in the bheels, from which it rushes through khals into larger streams, which again communicate with navigable rivers. An obstruction occurring in any one of these conduits must interfere with the drainage, and its effects are felt more or less according to the proximity or remoteness of the obstruction from the scene of its influence. Accordingly it has been found, as will be noticed more particularly hereafter, that the stoppage of the mouths of the different streams has not been productive of such serious consequences to the villages lying within their influence as when the same occurred more in the vicinity of those villages.

The obstructions appear to have arisen chiefly from roads and partly from embankments thrown up across khals for purposes of fisheries. I had neither time nor opportunities at command to trace in every instance how, and when, the stoppage had taken place, enough, however, has been discovered to satisfy me of the correctness of my general conclusions.

The banks of large rivers as a rule being always high, the slope of the villages situated on either side of the Hooghly runs inland. Accordingly the drainage of all the villages from Trebeni to Nasurye, as also of those lying more inland, at one time passed over the adjoining paddy fields to the west into the River Koontee through the Jhenook Khalee Khal. On either side of this khal are beds of sand of a superior quality, which is extensively used for building purposes. In the process of excavating this sand a large quantity of surface earth is thrown up and deposited close to the bed of the khal, and being gradually washed into it has caused some obstruction in that channel. The mouth of the Koontee again, called Nasurye Khal, has since several years considerably silted up, closing its navigation soon after the rains. These stoppages, though interfering to a certain extent with the drainage of the country, did not produce any serious consequences. About five years since, however, a road was run by Baboo Mudoosoodun Nundy (unprovided with a single bridge) from Mugra to Nasurye, crossing the water-course and thereby completely intercepting the drainage of all the villages noticed above in its flow into the Koontee. This resulted in the breaking out of the epidemic a year or two after almost simultaneously in all those villages. In the same manner Joypore, Bagaty, and the other adjacent villages were attacked; soon after the village road from Trebeni to Mugra was raised and metalled without any outlet being kept across it, thus stopping the drainage of those places, which, when the road was kutcha and on a level with the country, flowed over it into the Koontee.

A road from Rajhat to Dwarbashini crossing a bheel, where the drainage of the latter place used to collect, has stopped its passage into the Kadermuttee. There is an apology for a bridge constructed, the ryots said, about two years since, but I was satisfied by personal observation that it was quite insufficient to afford free passage to the drainage of the place, as large collections of water in the bheel itself at a time of the year when even large tanks begin to dry up otherwise fully proved. The result is that a violent epidemic has been raging in Dwarbashini since August last. Again, the Unjona, which was at one time a navigable stream during the rains, carrying in its fall into the Matabhanga the drainage of a number of villages in the vicinity of Kishnaghur, has silted up at both the ends since fourteen years, yet none of the villages of which it was the main sewer suffered therefrom. A kutcha road, however, running from the Barrobazar of Kishnaghur to Lollbagaun, crossing the water-courses of Ba[illegible] has been raised within the last [illegible] completely intercepting the drainage of that village, which had hitherto flowed over it into the paddy fields; and it has been followed by the breaking out of a fearful epidemic in Baroepara since August last.

* It is highly probable that the long continued pestilence which necessitated the removal of the seat of Government from Gour to Tanra was caused by interruption in the drainage of the city. The heavy embankment on the margin of the lake or bheel on its eastern extremity, while guarding the city from inundation, must have effectually shut out the drainage in its flow into the lake.

In like manner the Eastern Railway and its feeders, when the same have crossed the water-courses of villages lying on the eastern bank of the River Hooghly, and of others more inland, but situated to the west of the line, have obstructed the drainage of those places; the fall of the villages lying on the eastern bank of the Hooghly, as I have before observed, being towards the east, and consequently Chogda, Kanchraparah, Halisuhur, and many others similarly situated have suffered.

I may here remark that the face of the country being perfectly flat, the drainage runs over the whole surface towards the direction of its slope, and consequently roads running transversely to it must of necessity intercept the drainage. Both the East Indian and the Eastern Railways are provided with capacious viaducts whenever they have crossed what appeared to the eye as water-courses; but these are in reality khals and other large streams, which, as I have already observed, received the drainage in its flow from the villages over paddy fields and bheels. The latter exhibit no visible signs of their being waterways, and could not be known as such unless narrowly watched during the rains, though a road crossing them would more effectually shut out the drainage, and the evil consequences resulting therefrom would be much sooner felt than when it crossed distant channels. Taking into consideration the number of roads which have sprung up of late, as also others in course of construction, and bearing in mind likewise the manner in which the drainage of the country is effected, and the difficulty thereby entailed of providing those roads with a sufficient number of outlets, it is not improbable that in the cases of those villages which have not yet been examined, obstructions to their drainage would, upon enquiry, appear to have proceeded chiefly from roads having been made without reference to the watershed of the country, and without being provided with a sufficient number of water-courses.

Proof of being a Foreigner. II. If a question shall arise whether any person alleged to be a Foreigner and to be subject to the provisions of this Act is a Foreigner or not, or is or is not subject to the provisions of this Act, the onus of proving that such person is not a Foreigner, or is not subject to the provisions of this Act, shall lie upon such person.

Government may order any Foreigner to remove himself. III. The Governor General of India in Council may, by writing, order any Foreigner to remove himself from British India, or to remove himself therefrom by a particular route to be specified in the order ; and any local Government may, by writing, make the like order with reference to any Foreigner within the jurisdiction of such Government.

BANK OF BENGAL,

12TH MARCH 1864.

NOTIFICATION.

IT is hereby notified that as the present Capital of the Bank is insufficient to meet its requirements, in consequence of the increase of business, principally arising from the establishment of Branches subordinate to the Bank in various parts of the Bengal Presidency, the Directors have determined, under the authority vested in them by Section 6, Act IV. of 1862, to increase the Capital from one crore, nine lacs, ninety thousand, nine hundred and nine Rupees, to two crores and twenty lacs, by the issue of new Shares or consolidated Stock under the following conditions :—

1*st*.—Holders of old Shares will be entitled to claim new Shares at par, in the proportion of one Share for every Share of which they may be registered as Proprietors in the Books of the Bank. Registered Proprietors of consolidated Stock will, in like manner, be entitled to an equivalent amount of new Stock at par.

2*nd*.—Holders of Shares or Stock, whether in India or elsewhere, shall be allowed to the 15th day of August 1864 to claim the new issue. All Shares or Stock not claimed by the said date shall be at the disposal of the Directors, who shall cause the same to be sold for the benefit of the Bank, in such manner and at such times as they may deem expedient.

3*rd*.—Payments in one sum of the amount of Subscription on any whole, half, or quarter Share or Stock, to which any Proprietor may be entitled under this Notification, may be made, at any time, after the publication thereof. On all such payments, prior to the 30th June next, interest will be allowed, at the rate of 8 per Cent. per annum, from date of payment to the 30th June; and the Shares or Stock so paid up shall, thenceforward, be entitled to dividend. On all payments, made subsequent to the 30th June, interest will similarly be allowed (at the rate of 8 per Cent.) until the 31st December following, from which date the Shares or Stock so paid up shall, in like manner, become entitled to dividend.

4*th*.—The transfer Books will be closed from the 16th to the 31st of August 1864 inclusive. All Shares or Stock previously subscribed for, but on which the full amount of Capital shall not be paid by the last mentioned date, will lapse to the Bank and will be at the disposal of the Directors as provided in Clause 2.

Railway from Calcutta to the foot of the Hills, Darjeeling.

From F. PRESTAGE, Esq., Agent, Eastern Bengal Railway Company, to the Consulting Engineer to Government of Bengal, Railway Department,—(No. 358, dated the 22nd March 1864.)

I HAVE the honor to inform you, it has been brought to my notice that a project is now before the Government of Bengal for constructing a Branch Railway from this Railway Company's Station at Ranaghaut, through Kishnaghur, to Moorshedabad, to join the Indian Branch Railway Company's line from the latter place to Bugwangolah, with a view to cross the Ganges at that place, and carry a line to the foot of the hills near Darjeeling, with a branch to Rungpore and Bugwah.

On behalf of this Company I most respectfully but firmly protest against any concession or subvention being given to any Company proposing to undertake the construction of these lines, for, in the first place, the line from Ranaghaut to Bugwangolah would be a competing line with the present main line of this Railway to Kooshtea, and deprive this Company of a large portion of the revenue that it now obtains from the traffic of the Districts of Kishnaghur and Moorshedabad lying to the west of the Railway.

It would also be a competing line for the traffic of the Ganges, and by encouraging the construction of such a line instead of constructing feeder roads from the principal places it passes through to the nearest Stations on this Railway, as already undertaken, and partly executed by Government, will amount to a breach of faith with the Railway Company.

In the second place the Government, by granting a concession to any Company, but this for the construction of a line to Darjeeling, will be acting in direct contravention to the promise made this Railway Company by the Secretary of State for India in Council, contained in Sir James C. Melville's letter dated the 13th May 1859, and a copy of which I annex.

I also must protest against any concession or subvention being made to any Company for the construction of such a branch line as that proposed through Rungpore, on to Bugwah on the Berhampooter, as it can only be considered an invasion of this Company's territory.

From J. COSMO MELVILLE, Esq., Under-Secretary of State for India, to Secretary, London Board, Eastern Bengal Railway Company,—(dated the 13th May 1859.)

WITH reference to the correspondence that has passed with the Eastern Bengal Railway Company regarding a line of Railway to Darjeeling, I am instructed to inform you that a reply to the reference which had been made to the Government of India regarding the proposals of that Company and of the Northern of Bengal Railway Company for constructing the line in question, has recently been received.

The Government of India, after considering the two schemes, has come to the conclusion that greater public advantages would be secured by the adoption of that proposed by the Eastern Bengal Company.

The Secretary of State for India in Council concurs in this view, and I am instructed to inform you that, if it should at any time be determined to sanction the line in question, the execution of the work will be committed to the Eastern Bengal Railway Company.

From CAPTAIN F. S. TAYLOR, R.E., Joint Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch, to Agent, Eastern Bengal Railway Company,—(No. 4006., dated the 26th March 1864.)

I HAVE the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication from by order; and, dated 22nd March 1864, from which I am directed to inform you, that, acting on information brought to our notice, you wish, in the interests of the Eastern Bengal Railway Company, to protest against any action being taken for extension of Railways in Bengal.

2. In reply I am instructed by the Lieutenant-Governor to invite your attention and that of your Board in England to Act XXII. of 1863, the provisions of which will be found applicable to any case likely to arise in this country, in which private enterprise would affect the Company's interest detrimentally.

3. I am to observe that it is obviously impossible that this Government could disturb in any way the contract made in England between Her Majesty's Secretary of State and the Eastern Bengal Railway Company, for the construction of a line of Railway from Calcutta towards the city of Dacca, and it is presumed that your letter was not intended to imply any apprehension of a breach of faith in respect to this contract, but rather it would appear that you have confounded two very distinct matters.

4. As far as this Government is aware, your Company are not at present negotiating with Her Majesty's Secretary of State for an extension of the main line, and for present purposes the Railway from Calcutta to Koóshtea may be considered to represent the completed undertaking. But if I may gather from the use made by you of the Secretary of State's communication of 13th May 1859, that your Company are now desirous of prosecuting a branch line to Darjeeling, the Act above quoted will be found altogether applicable to the occasion, and I am to suggest that you lose no time in communicating with your Board, pointing out the proper course for their adoption.

XXII. of 1863, Clause IV.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor is anxious that there should be no misapprehension of the action taken on your communication under reply, and I am desired to assure you that, at the proper time, due weight will be given to all you have to urge, either in support of undertakings brought forward on behalf of your Company, or in opposition to those of a competing line; but it may be apposite to observe here, that any argument which implies a preference for carts-roads over Railways as feeders to the main line, would be antagonistic to the public interests, which unquestionably demand an expansion of the Railway system.

6. I am also to refer you to the Supplement of the Calcutta Gazette for further information concerning the views of the Supreme Government on the important subject of the extension of the Railway system of Bengal.

From CAPTAIN F. S. TAYLOR, R. E., Joint Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department, Railway Branch, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department,—(No. 402G., dated the 29th March 1864.)

WITH reference to your letter No. 1101 dated 8th instant, I am instructed by the Lieutenant-Governor to forward, for the information of the Government of India, copy of a letter addressed to the Agent, Indian Branches, Eastern Bengal Railway Company, No. 380G., dated the 21st instant, and also of a correspondence with the Agent, Eastern Bengal Railway Company, relative to the proposed construction of a Branch Railway from Ranaghaut to Moorshedabad and Bhugwangolah, eastward by independent Companies as invasions of his Company's territory.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that under no circumstances would the Eastern Bengal Railway Company be justified in assuming such a position as this. Admitting as unquestionable that competing lines are to be avoided on public grounds, as well as for financial reasons when Government contribute towards the expenses of construction, it by no means follows that because the existing Company enjoy certain valuable concessions they are on that ground entitled to exclude independent enterprise offering to extend the Railway system in Bengal, especially if it be on terms more favorable to the public than this Company is willing to accept. Even in regard to the Darjeeling line, the promise made to the Eastern Bengal Railway Company must be taken to be conditional on their undertaking the construction of the line within a reasonable time, and on such terms as the Secretary of State may approve.

4. In regard to that portion of Mr. Wilson's projected line which connects the Eastern Bengal Railway Station at Ranaghat with the Ganges at Bhugwangolah, it may be observed that the section from Zeeagunge to Bhugwangolah has already been conceded; and that the section from Ranaghaut to Moorshedabad and Zeeagunge, so far from being a competing line on any reasonable construction of that term, will penetrate a large, populous, and wealthy District now practically beyond the reach of Railway communication, and act as a feeder to the Eastern Bengal Railway in a degree far beyond that attainable by any number of metalled roads, besides attracting to the Eastern Bengal Railway much of the traffic of Berhampore and Moorshedabad, which now finds its way by the Nulhatee Branch line to the East Indian Railway. And even were it otherwise, a direct Railway communication between Calcutta and Moorshedabad is an object of far greater importance to the public than the protection of the Eastern Bengal Railway Company's interests from competition.

5. I am, therefore, desired to suggest that Her Majesty's Secretary of State may be moved to inform the Board of Directors of the Eastern Bengal Railway Company that the concession of the line to Darjeeling, unless at once taken up by that Company on the terms on which the promise was made, will be granted to the Company which offers the best terms for its construction, and in the mean time the Lieutenant-Governor will give every facility to parties offering to undertake the preliminary operations.

From COLONEL R. STRACHEY, R. E., Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department, to the Joint Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Public Works Department, Railway Branch,—(No. 1783, dated the 15th April 1864.)

92R.

I AM directed to acknowledge your letter No. 402G., dated 29th March, reporting the action of the Government of Bengal in connexion with the claim advanced by the Agent of the Eastern Bengal Railway Company on behalf of that Company to the exclusive right to construct

The Candidate tendering the fee will, at the same time, present the Certificate of admission provided by Rule 8, and the Collector's receipt for the fee will be endorsed on the Certificate.

2. Arrangements have been made, under contract with the Indian Carrying Company, for the conveyance, at fixed rates of charge, on and after the 1st proximo, of Government Troops, Stores, and Passengers on all the existing lines of Government Bullock Train and on all other lines in India now served, or which may be served, by the Indian Carrying Company.

3. The rates and conditions of charge for Government Troops, Stores, and Passengers have been fixed as follows:—

I. FOR THE DISTANCE CONVEYED BY RAIL, 3 per cent. above Railway rates.

II. FOR THE DISTANCE CONVEYED BY ROAD.

(a.) For Government stores, at 1·17 pie per maund per mile, subject to the following provisions viz.:—

Fractions of a mile will be regarded as a mile.

No package, however small, will be charged for at a less rate than half a maund; but parties despatching at the same time more than one package aggregating one maund or more, will be charged according to aggregate weight.

Fractional parts of a maund, below half a maund, will be charged as half a maund; and above half a maund, as a maund.

Light packages may, at the option of the Company, be charged by measurement, at the rate of 5 cubic feet per maund.

No package will be conveyed between two Stations (however short the distance) for less than 3 annas.

(b.) For Government Troops, including officers, soldiers, women, children, and followers. The number of Carts or Waggons which may in any case be required will be indicated by the Officer despatching the Troops, in accordance with existing Rules in respect of accommodation for Troops, or such modification of these Rules as may, from time to time, be made by the Military Authorities.

(c.) For Government Passengers, at the rate chargeable for stores (Section a), each adult passenger (i. e., above 12 years of age) being reckoned as equivalent to 3 maunds; each child above 2 years of age being reckoned as equivalent to 1½ maunds; and children of two years old and under, when travelling with their parents or guardians, being conveyed free. Baggage to the extent of 20 seers for each adult passenger and 10 seers for each chargeable child will be allowed free, but it will be regarded as in the custody and at the risk of the passenger,

If separate Waggons or Carts be engaged for the conveyance of Government Passengers, the charge will be made as for a full cart load (15 maunds) or a full Waggon load (30 maunds) as the case may be, subject to the condition that the number of chargeable Passengers conveyed in such Carts or Waggons shall not be more than equivalent to the full complement thereof (15 or 30 maunds) on the calculation of each adult passenger being equivalent to 3 maunds, and each chargeable child to 1½ maunds.

(d.) For Government wheeled vehicles such as Artillery Ambulances, &c., each two-wheeled vehicle will be charged as equivalent to 10 maunds, and each four-wheeled vehicle as equivalent to 20 maunds.

Correspondence relative to the Offer of the Hon'ble Rustomjee Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy for the purpose of encouraging Natives of India to study in England for the Indian Bar.

From W. H. Havelock, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bombay, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 727, dated the 9th December 1863.)

I am directed by the Hon'ble the Governor in Council to transmit, for the information of the Government of Bengal, the accompanying copy of a Memorandum from the Hon'ble Rustomjee Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy, dated the 1st instant, in which he proposes to devote a sum of Rupees 1,50,000.

Rupees one lac and fifty thousand for the purpose of encouraging Natives of India to qualify themselves in England for practice at the Bar in this country, and to request that you will move His Honor the President in Council to adopt such measures as he may deem advisable for giving effect to this munificent and public-spirited offer.

2. A copy of the Memorandum has been forwarded to the Government of Madras.

Memorandum.

It being my wish to offer some encouragement to the Natives of India who are now following, or intend to follow, the legal profession at the three Presidencies of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay to qualify themselves in England to practice in this country as Barristers on a footing of equality as regards legal training with European Members of the Bar, I propose to devote the sum of Rupees one lac and fifty thousand (Rupees 1,50,000) for this object, which I estimate will be sufficient to enable five Natives of India to proceed to England for the purpose of qualifying themselves for practice at the Bar in India.

The benefits of this proposal are to be open to—

One Parsee, One Hindoo, and One Portuguese,	In Bombay ...	All of good family connections, occupying a respectable position in Society,
One Mahomedan, One Hindoo, or East Indian,	From Calcutta or Madras, in all five Natives from the three Presidencies.

The selection of the candidates in the Bombay Presidency to be placed in the hands of a Committee consisting of the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Bombay; the Director of Public Instruction; the Chief Judge of the Small Cause Court; Dr. Reid, one of the Trustees of the Parsee Punchayet; Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy, Baronet; the Hon'ble Juggonath Sunkersett; N. Fernandes, Esq., and the Proposer.

These gentlemen may receive applications from candidates in the Bombay Presidency, and in making their selection the good moral character of the respective parties must be an indispensable qualification, and not merely abilities alone.

The candidates in the Bengal and Madras Presidencies, respectively, are to be selected by a Committee to be appointed by the respective Governments of those Presidencies. The Vice-Chancellor of the Universities of Calcutta and Madras, the Chief Judge of the Small Cause Court, and the Director of Public Instruction at these Presidencies being ex-officio Members of these Committees. It should be distinctly understood by these Committees that no candidate, whatever his abilities may be, should be selected who cannot produce undoubted proof of his good moral conduct. This proposal to be kept open for one year from this date, after which no applications from candidates are to be received.

To each successful candidate the following payments will be made out of the fund which I propose to set aside:—

Passage-money to England and back £220	... Rs.	2,200
Fees, Books, &c., during the three years' residence in England, say £730	... „	7,300
Expense of living in England for three years, say £350 per annum, £1,050	... „	10,500
Sum to be presented to each candidate on his return to India who has successfully passed as a Barrister, and can also produce Certificates of his good moral conduct during his residence in England £1,000	... „	10,000
Total expense incurred on account of each successful candidate	... Rs.	30,000

If, therefore, there should be found five successful candidates, the total sum required for the whole number will be (Rupees 1,50,000) one lac and fifty thousand Rupees, the amount which I propose to set apart for this special purpose.

If any of those who may be selected should fail to qualify themselves after three years,' or at the most three and a half years' residence in England, or if any of them are unable to produce a Certificate of good moral conduct during their residence in England, from such candidates the present of (Rupees 10,000) ten thousand Rupees on their return to India is to be withheld.

Candidates will be required, after the expiration of each year's residence in England, to produce a Certificate of the progress made by them from the proper Authorities in England, and also respecting their moral conduct. Should these Certificates be unsatisfactory the allowance will be discontinued.

The several Committees at the different Presidencies may make such Rules as they consider necessary and expedient for giving effect to the several conditions embodied in this proposal.

MINUTE of the Proceedings of the Committee appointed by the Government of Bengal for selection of a candidate from the Bengal Presidency for legal training in England at the expense of the Hon'ble Rustomjee Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy,—April 2nd, 1864.

PRESENT:

HON'BLE G. CAMPBELL, Chairman.
HON'BLE H. S. MAINE.
W. G. ROSE, ESQ.
SYUD AZEEMOODEEN HOSSEIN.

Read the Memorandum of the Donor, dated 1st December 1863.

Explanatory letter from the Donor, dated 29th February 1863.

The Committee observe that the Donor has now determined that the Committee shall select in this Presidency one candidate for his munificent donation, and that they are to select the best candidate, whether he be a Mahomedan, a Hindoo, or an East Indian.

The Committee, therefore, now propose to make public the Donor's offer and to invite candidates. They observe that the donation is designed to enable Natives of India desirous of practising as Barristers in this country to qualify themselves in England, and that to each candidate the following payments will be made subject to the conditions annexed:—

Passage-money to England and back £220	... Rs.	2,200
Fees, Books, &c., during the three years' residence in England, say £730	... „	7,300
Expense of living in England for three years, say £350 per annum £1,050	... „	10,500
Sum to be presented to each candidate on his return to India who has successfully passed as a Barrister, and can also produce Certificates of his good moral conduct during his residence in England £1,000	... „	10,000
Total expense incurred on account of each successful candidate	... Rs.	30,000

The Committee have settled the following qualifications to be required of candidates for the nomination entrusted to them in accordance with the letter and spirit of the Donor's Memorandum:—

Every candidate must be a Native of India and educated in the country.

He must be under twenty-five years of age.

He must produce satisfactory testimonials of unexceptionable moral character; and must shew that he is a person of good family connections occupying a respectable position in society.

He must either be engaged in the actual practice of the legal profession, or be a Bachelor of Law preparing for it. He must prove his ability either by the nature of his University Degree, if he has one, or by testimonials of competent persons showing his fitness for the legal profession. If he has been a legal Practitioner he must produce a Certificate of ability from one or more Judges before whom he has practised. All persons who testify to the moral or intellectual fitness of candidates must, in the body of the Certificate, state their willingness to answer any questions regarding the candidate which the Committee may think fit to put.

Applications must be submitted to the Committee before the 1st July next, with copies of the testimonials held by the candidate written out consecutively on foolscap paper in a legible hand.

The Committee reserve to themselves the power of subjecting approved candidates to a competitive examination should they find it desirable to do so.

The Government of Bengal will be asked to give such publicity as it may think fit to the offer of the Hon'ble Rustomjee Jejeebhoy and to these conditions, and to communicate them to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

The Committee also think it necessary to represent to the Government that, as the applications will probably be numerous and may involve some correspondence, it is very desirable that a Secretary to the Commission should be appointed to receive and classify them, and that communications should be addressed to him.

C. BOULNOIS,
Offg. Depy. Secy. to Govt. of India, Home Dept.

THE following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 14th April 1864, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XXVI OF 1864.

An Act to extend the jurisdiction of the Courts of Small Causes at Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, and to provide for the appointment of an increased number of Judges of those Courts.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to increase the limit of the jurisdiction of the Courts of Small Causes held under Act IX of 1850 (for the more easy recovery of small debts and demands in Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay), and to increase the number of Judges of the said Courts; It is enacted as follows :—

Interpretation.

I. The words "Local Government" and "High Court" as used in this Act shall bear respectively the same meaning as the words "Governor in Council" and "Supreme Court," as used in the said Act IX of 1850.

The Small Cause Courts may take cognizance of suits for sums not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

II. The jurisdiction of the Courts held or to be held under the said Act IX of 1850 shall extend to the recovery of any debt, damage, or demand exceeding the sum of five hundred Rupees but not exceeding the sum of one thousand Rupees, and to all actions in respect thereof (except the several actions specified in the proviso in Section XXV of the same Act), provided that the cause of action shall have arisen or the defendant at the time of bringing the action shall dwell or carry on business or personally work for gain within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court.

The Small Cause Court may take cognizance of suits for sums exceeding one thousand Rupees if the parties consent.

III. If both parties shall agree by a Memorandum signed by them or by their Attorneys and filed with the Clerk of the Court of Small Causes, that the said Court shall have power to try any action (not included in the proviso in Section XXV of Act IX of 1850,) in which the debt or damage claimed or value of the property in dispute whether on balance of account or otherwise shall exceed the sum of one thousand Rupees, then and in such case the said Court shall have jurisdiction to try such action.

Powers and provisions of Act VII of 1847 extended to recovery of arrears of rent not exceeding one thousand Rupees, and Calcutta Court of Small Causes empowered to exercise extended powers.

IV. The powers and provisions of Act VII of 1847 (to regulate distresses for small rents in Calcutta) shall be extended to the recovery of all arrears of rent not exceeding one thousand Rupees, and the Judges of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes under Act IX of 1850 shall be empowered to exercise within their jurisdiction the extended powers of the said Act VII of 1847: and the said Act shall be construed as if, instead of Calcutta and the Settlement of Fort William in Bengal, the limits of the jurisdiction of the Court had been therein mentioned, and the Judges of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes under Act IX of 1850 instead of the Commissioners of the Court therein mentioned, and the amount of one thousand Rupees instead of one hundred Rupees, and the forms contained in the Schedule exed to the said Act VII of 1847 shall be altered accordingly, and shall refer to Act IX of 1850 and to this Act instead of to Act VII of 1847.

Powers and provisions of Section XCI, Act IX of 1850 extended to cases not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

V. The powers and provisions of Section XCI of Act IX of 1850 are hereby extended so as to apply to the case of any person who shall hold or occupy any house, land, or tenement of which the value or the rent payable in respect thereof does not exceed the rate of one thousand Rupees by the year, and the said Section XCI of Act IX of 1850 shall be read as if the words "five hundred" were omitted, and the words "one thousand" substituted for them.

Powers and provisions of Act IX of 1850, and all rules, &c., made in pursuance thereof extended to debts, damages and demands exceeding five hundred Rupees.

VI. The several powers and provisions of the said Act and all rules, orders, and regulations which have been or may be made in pursuance of the said Act, shall extend to all debts, damages, and demands which may be sued for in the said Courts exceeding the sum of five hundred Rupees, and to all proceedings and judgments for the recovery of the same, or otherwise in relation thereto respectively, as fully and effectually, to all intents and purposes, as the same respectively are now or may be applicable to debts, damages, and demands within the present jurisdiction of the said Courts.

In causes for an amount exceeding five hundred Rupees Judges shall reserve case for opinion of High Court when they have doubts themselves, or when either of the parties require them to do so.

VII. In any cause of an amount exceeding five hundred Rupees the Judges of the said Courts of Small Causes shall reserve any question of law or equity or any question as to the admission or rejection of any evidence as to which they shall entertain any doubts, or which they shall be requested by either party to the suit to reserve for the opinion of the High Court, and shall give judgment contingent upon the opinion of the said High Court on a case which they shall thereupon be entitled to state to the said Court. If only two Judges sit together and shall differ in opinion, the question on which they differ shall be so reserved.

Security to be given in certain cases when case is reserved.

VIII. When judgment is given contingent upon the opinion of the High Court, the party against whom such judgment is given shall, unless he be willing to submit to such judgment, forthwith give security, to be approved by the Clerk of the Court, for the costs of the reference to the High Court and for the amount of the judgment; provided, nevertheless, that such security, so far as regards the amount of the judgment, shall not be required in any case where the Judge of the Court of Small Causes who tried the suit shall have ordered the defendant to pay the amount of such judgment into the hands of the Clerk of the said Court and the same shall have been paid accordingly; and the said High Court may either order a new trial on such terms as it thinks fit, or may order judgment to be entered for either party as the case may be, and may make such order with respect to the costs of reserving the question and stating the same for their opinion and otherwise arising thereout or connected therewith as such High Court may think proper. And all orders made by the High Court under this Section shall be final.

Costs of sending up the case to be at the discretion of the High Court.

No costs in cases brought in the High Court when verdict is for less than one thousand Rupees unless Judge certifies &c.

IX. If any action shall after the passing of this Act be commenced in the High Court for any cause other than those specified in Section C of Act IX of 1850, for which a summons might have been taken out from a Court held under the said Act IX of 1850 or under this Act, and in which such Court would have had jurisdiction, and if a verdict shall be found for the plaintiff for a sum less than one thousand Rupees if the said action is founded on contract, or less than three hundred Rupees if it is founded on wrong, the plaintiff shall have judgment to recover such sum only and no costs, and if a verdict shall not be found for the plaintiff, the defendant shall be entitled to his costs as between attorney and client, unless in either case the Judge who shall try the case shall certify that by reason of the difficulty, novelty, or general importance of the case, or of some erroneous course of decisions in like cases in the Court of Small Causes, the action was fit to be brought in the High Court.

In suit in High Court against Officer of Court if no verdict for more than one thousand Rupees no costs allowed unless Judge shall certify.

X. If any person shall bring any suit in the High Court in respect of any grievance committed by the Clerk, Bailiff, or Officer of any Court held under Act IX of 1850 or under this Act, or under color or pretence of the process of the said Court, and upon the trial of the action no greater damages shall be found for the plaintiff than the sum of one thousand Rupees, no cost shall be awarded to the plaintiff in such action unless the Judge shall certify in Court that the action was fit to be brought in the High Court.

Fees payable to the Courts of Small Causes in suits under this Act.

XI. There shall be payable in the Court of Small Causes at Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay respectively, in every cause of an amount to which jurisdiction is given to the said Court by this Act, the fees set forth in the Schedule hereto annexed, besides the sum of two annas in each Rupee of the amount sued for, so far as such amount does not exceed five hundred Rupees, and one anna in the Rupee so far as such amount exceeds five hundred Rupees, which fee shall be paid over to the same account as that to which the fees payable under Section XIX of Act XI of 1850 are paid over.

Government may appoint as many Judges as may be necessary.

XII. Whereas by Section VIII of the said Act IX of 1850 provision is made for the appointment of so many persons as may be necessary, not exceeding three, to be Judges of the said Courts of Small Causes respectively, it is hereby enacted that it shall be lawful for the local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General of India in Council, to appoint as many persons as may be necessary to be Judges of the said Courts respectively.

Fees payable to Barristers and Attornies in suits tried under this Act.

XIII. The fees to be taken by Barristers-at-Law and Attornies practising in the said Courts in cases brought within the jurisdiction given by this Act shall be as follows:—an Attorney shall be entitled to have or recover a sum not exceeding fifty-one Rupees for his fees and costs, and in no case shall any fee exceeding eighty-five Rupees be allowed for employing a Barrister as Counsel in the cause. The expense of employing Barrister or an Attorney, or both a Barrister and an Attorney, either by plaintiff or defendant, shall not be allowed as costs unless by order of the Judge, and the Judges of the said Court shall determine in what cases such expenses shall be so allowed.

XIV. Of the Judges appointed under Section VIII of the said Act IX of 1850 the one who is a Barrister-at-Law or Advocate of one of the High Courts of India or of the Court of Session of Scotland shall be styled the First Judge. The First Judge shall make such arrangements as he shall think fit with regard to the distribution of the suits and of the general business of the Court among the various Judges thereof: and he may vary such arrangements from time to time.

One of the Judges appointed under Act IX of 1850 to be styled First Judge; and to arrange the distribution of business among the other Judges.

Design for Competition.

Presidency College and Senate House.

The Madras Government are prepared to receive Designs for a new Presidency College, and for a Senate House, to be built at Chepauk, Madras.

A Schedule of measurements, together with a Plan of the proposed site, can be had on application at the Office of the Secretary to Government, Department of Public Works, Madras.

The rates on which the work is to be calculated will also be furnished at that Office. The gross Estimate is not to exceed Rupees 2,50,000 for the College, and Rupees 1,50,000 for the Senate House.

The Buildings will be erected on contiguous sites, and both should therefore be planned in the same style of Architecture.

There must be ample provision for proper ventilation, and the walls must be protected, as far as possible, from the direct rays of the sun.

The Designs are unrestricted, firstly, as to the style, provided it is suited to the climate, and to the use to which the Buildings are to be devoted; and secondly, as to materials, provided they are procurable in Madras at prices which will admit of their being used in the Buildings as designed.

The Designs must include—

1*st.*—Ground Plan, and Plan of each story.

2*nd.*—Elevation of each of the four faces, if not alike.

3*rd.*—Transverse Sections.

The Plans and Elevations to be on a scale of eight feet to an inch. A Specification, in sufficient detail, to accompany each Plan to enable the Judges to decide whether the Plans can be carried out within the sum allowed.

A Prize of Rupees 3,000 will be awarded for the best Design, provided it fairly fulfils the above conditions.

If the best Designs, on an artistic point of view, fail to fulfil any of the above essential conditions, the Judges will be empowered to reduce or withold the Prize; and no Prize will be awarded to a Design merely because it fulfils the conditions, if otherwise conspicuously deficient in artistic merit.

The Drawings and Estimates, &c, should be sent in on or before the 1st of November 1864, in the usual manner, with mottos and envelopes containing the name and address of the artist, to the Secretary to Government, Public Works Department, Madras, by whom the envelopes will be opened after the Prizes have been adjudged.

It will be optional to Government to avail themselves of the services of the author in altering or executing the Design selected, and that Design will remain the absolute property of Government.

The Design will be selected and the Prize awarded by a Committee, consisting of—

The Secretary to Government, Public Works Department, Madras.

The Director of Public Instruction, Madras.

The Chief Engineer, Madras Railway Company, who will be asked to aid Government in the adjudication.

Unsuccessful Designs will be returned to the authors if claimed by them, or by their authorized Agents, within one month from the period of adjudication.

Secretary to the Government.

1*st*.—Holders of old Shares will be entitled to claim new Shares at par, in the proportion of one Share for every Share of which they may be registered as Proprietors in the Books of the Bank. Registered Proprietors of consolidated Stock will, in like manner, be entitled to an equivalent amount of new Stock at par.

2*nd*.—Holders of Shares or Stock, whether in India or elsewhere, shall be allowed to the 15th day of August 1864 to claim the new issue. 3*rd*.—Payments in one sum of the amount of Subscription on any whole, half, or quarter Share or Stock, to which any Proprietor may be entitled under this Notification, may be made, at any time, after the publication thereof. On all such payments, prior to the 30th June next, interest will be allowed, at the rate of 8 per Cent. per annum, from date of payment to the 30th June; and the Shares or Stock so paid up shall, thenceforward, be entitled to dividend. Offg. Depy. Secy. to Govt. of India, Home Dept.

THE following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 14th April 1864, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XXVI OF 1864.

An Act to extend the jurisdiction of the Courts of Small Causes at Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, and to provide for the appointment of an increased number of Judges of those Courts.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to increase the limit of the jurisdiction of the Courts of Small Causes held under Act IX of 1850 (for the more easy recovery of small debts and demands in Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay), and to increase the number of Judges of the said Courts; It is enacted as follows :—

Interpretation.

I. The words "Local Government" and "High Court" as used in this Act shall bear respectively the same meaning as the words "Governor in Council" and "Supreme Court," as used in the said Act IX of 1850.

The Small Cause Courts may take cognizance of suits for sums not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

II. The jurisdiction of the Courts held or to be held under the said Act IX of 1850 shall extend to the recovery of any debt, damage, or demand exceeding the sum of five hundred Rupees but not exceeding the sum of one thousand Rupees, and to all actions in respect thereof (except the several actions specified in the proviso in Section XXV of the same Act), provided that the cause of action shall have arisen or the defendant at the time of bringing the action shall dwell or carry on business or personally work for gain within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court.

The Small Cause Court may take cognizance of suits for sums exceeding one thousand Rupees if the parties consent.

III. If both parties shall agree by a Memorandum signed by them or by their Attorneys and filed with the Clerk of the Court of Small Causes, that the said Court shall have power to try any action (not included in the proviso in Section XXV of Act IX of 1850,) in which the debt or damage claimed or value of the property in dispute whether on balance of account or otherwise shall exceed the sum of one thousand Rupees, then and in such case the said Court shall have jurisdiction to try such action.

Powers and provisions of Act VII of 1847 extended to recovery of arrears of rent not exceeding one thousand Rupees, and Calcutta Court of Small Causes empowered to exercise extended powers.

IV. The powers and provisions of Act VII of 1847 (to regulate distresses for small rents in Calcutta) shall be extended to the recovery of all arrears of rent not exceeding one thousand Rupees, and the Judges of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes under Act IX of 1850 shall be empowered to exercise within their jurisdiction the extended powers of the said Act VII of 1847: and the said Act shall be construed as if, instead of Calcutta and the Settlement of Fort William in Bengal, the limits of the jurisdiction of the Court had been therein mentioned, and the Judges of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes under Act IX of 1850 instead of the Commissioners of the Court therein mentioned, and the amount of one thousand Rupees instead of one hundred Rupees, and the forms contained in the Schedule annexed to the said Act VII of 1847 shall be altered accordingly, and shall refer to Act IX of 1850 and to this Act instead of to Act VII of 1847.

Powers and provisions of Section XCI, Act IX of 1850 extended to cases not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

V. The powers and provisions of Section XCI of Act IX of 1850 are hereby extended so as to apply to the case of any person who shall hold or occupy any house, land, or tenement of which the value or the rent payable in respect thereof does not exceed the rate of one thousand Rupees by the year, and the said Section XCI of Act IX of 1850 shall be read as if the words "five hundred" were omitted, and the words "one thousand" substituted for them.

Powers and provisions of Act IX of 1850, and all rules, &c., made in pursuance thereof extended to debts, damages, and demands exceeding five hundred Rupees.

VI. The several powers and provisions of the said Act and all rules, orders, and regulations which have been or may be made in pursuance of the said Act, shall extend to all debts, damages, and demands which may be sued for in the said Courts exceeding the sum of five hundred Rupees, and to all proceedings and judgments for the recovery of the same, or otherwise in relation thereto respectively, as fully and effectually, to all intents and purposes, as the same respectively are now or may be applicable to debts, damages, and demands within the present jurisdiction of the said Courts.

In causes for an amount exceeding five hundred Rupees Judges shall reserve case for opinion of High Court when they have doubts themselves, or when either of the parties require them to do so.

VII. In any cause of an amount exceeding five hundred Rupees the Judges of the said Courts of Small Causes shall reserve any question of law or equity or any question as to the admission or rejection of any evidence as to which they shall entertain any doubts, or which they shall be requested by either party to the suit to reserve for the opinion of the High Court, and shall give judgment contingent upon the opinion of the said High Court in a case which they shall thereupon be entitled to state to the said Court. If only two Judges sit together and shall differ in opinion, the question on which they differ shall be so reserved.

Security to be given in certain cases when case is reserved.

VIII. When judgment is given contingent upon the opinion of the High Court, the party against whom such judgment is given shall, unless he be willing to submit to such judgment, forthwith give security, to be approved by the Clerk of the Court, for the costs of the reference to the High Court and for the amount of the judgment; provided, nevertheless, that such security, so far as regards the amount of the judgment, shall not be required in any case where the Judge of the Court of Small Causes who tried the suit shall have ordered the defendant to pay the amount of such judgment into the hands of the Clerk of the said Court and the same shall have been paid accordingly; and the said High Court may either order a new trial on such terms as it thinks fit, or may order judgment to be entered for either party as the case may be, and may make such order with respect to the costs of reserving the question and stating the same for their opinion and otherwise arising thereout or connected therewith as such High Court may think proper. And all orders made by the High Court under this Section shall be final.

Costs of sending up the case to be at the discretion of the High Court.

No costs in cases brought in the High Court when verdict is for less than one thousand Rupees unless Judge certifies, &c.

IX. If any action shall after the passing of this Act be commenced in the High Court for any cause other than those specified in Section C of Act IX of 1850, for which a summons might have been taken out from a Court held under the said Act IX of 1850 or under this Act, and in which such Court would have had jurisdiction, and if a verdict shall be found for the plaintiff for a sum less than one thousand Rupees if the said action is founded on contract, or less than three hundred Rupees if it is founded on wrong, the plaintiff shall have judgment to recover such sum only and no costs, and if a verdict shall not be found for the plaintiff, the defendant shall be entitled to his costs as between attorney and client, unless in either case the Judge who shall try the case shall certify that by reason of the difficulty, novelty, or general importance of the case, or of some erroneous course of decisions in like cases in the Court of Small Causes, the action was fit to be brought in the High Court.

In suit in High Court against Officer of Court, if no verdict for more than one thousand Rupees, no costs allowed unless Judge shall certify.

X. If any person shall bring any suit in the High Court in respect of any grievance committed by the Clerk, Bailiff, or Officer of any Court held under Act IX of 1850 or under this Act, or under color or pretence of the process of the said Court, and upon the trial of the action no greater damages shall be found for the plaintiff than the sum of one thousand Rupees, no cost shall be awarded to the plaintiff in such action unless the Judge shall certify in Court that the action was fit to be brought in the High Court.

Fees payable to the Courts of Small Causes in suits under this Act.

XI. There shall be payable in the Court of Small Causes at Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay respectively, in every cause of an amount to which jurisdiction is given to the said Court by this Act, the fees set forth in the Schedule hereto annexed, besides the sum of two annas in each Rupee of the amount sued for, so far as such amount does not exceed five hundred Rupees, and one anna in the Rupee so far as such amount exceeds five hundred Rupees, which fee shall be paid over to the same account as that to which the fees payable under Section XIX of Act XI of 1850 are paid over.

Government may appoint as many Judges as may be necessary.

XII. Whereas by Section VIII of the said Act IX of 1850 provision is made for the appointment of so many persons as may be necessary, not exceeding three, to be Judges of the said Courts of Small Causes respectively, it is hereby enacted that it shall be lawful for the local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General of India in Council, to appoint as many persons as may be necessary to be Judges of the said Courts respectively.

Fees payable to Barristers and Attornies in suits tried under this Act.

XIII. The fees to be taken by Barristers-at-Law and Attornies practising in the said Courts in cases brought within the jurisdiction given by this Act shall be as follows:—an Attorney shall be entitled to have or recover a sum not exceeding fifty-one Rupees for his fees and costs, and in no case shall any fee exceeding eighty-five Rupees be allowed for employing a Barrister as Counsel in the cause. The expense of employing Barrister or an Attorney, or both a Barrister and an Attorney, either by plaintiff or defendant, shall not be allowed as costs unless by order of the Judge, and the Judges of the said Court shall determine in what cases such expenses shall be so allowed.

One of the Judges appointed under Act IX of 1850 to be styled First Judge; and to arrange the distribution of business among the other Judges.

XIV. Of the Judges appointed under Section VIII of the said Act IX of 1850 the one who is a Barrister-at-Law or Advocate of one of the High Courts of India or of the Court of Session of Scotland shall be styled the First Judge. The First Judge shall make such arrangements as he shall think fit with regard to the distribution of the suits and of the general business of the Court among the various Judges thereof: and he may vary such arrangements from time to time.

Code of Civil Procedure may be extended in certain cases to Small Cause Courts.

XV. The local Government may, with the sanction of the Governor General of India in Council, declare that the whole or any part or parts of the Code of Civil Procedure shall be applicable to any Court held under Act IX of 1850 or under this Act: and the procedure prescribed in the said Code or the part or parts thereof so declared to be applicable shall thereupon be the procedure followed in such Court: Provided that no right of appeal or review shall in any case be given by any declaration made under this Section.

This Act to be read as part of Act IX. of 1850.

XVI. This Act and the said Act IX of 1850 shall be read and construed as one Act, as if the several provisions in the said Act contained, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, were repealed and re-enacted in this Act.

The rates on which the work is to be calculated will also be furnished at that Office. The gross Estimate is not to exceed Rupees 2,50,000 for the College, and Rupees 1,50,000 for the Senate House.

The Buildings will be erected on contiguous sites, and both should therefore be planned in the same style of Architecture.

There must be ample provision for proper ventilation, and the walls must be protected, as far as possible, from the direct rays of the sun.

A Prize of Rupees 3,000 will be awarded for the best Design, provided it fairly fulfils the above conditions.

If the best Designs, on an artistic point of view, fail to fulfil any of the above essential conditions, the Judges will be empowered to reduce or withold the Prize; and no Prize will be awarded to a Design merely because it fulfils the conditions, if otherwise conspicuously deficient in artistic merit.

The Drawings and Estimates, &c., should be sent in on or before the 1st of November 1864, in the usual manner, with mottos and envelopes containing the name and address of the artist, to the Secretary to Government, Public Works Department, Madras, by whom the envelopes will be opened after the Prizes have been adjudged.

It will be optional to Government to avail themselves of the services of the author in altering or executing the Design selected, and that Design will remain the absolute property of Government.

The Design will be selected and the Prize awarded by a Committee, consisting of—

The Secretary to Government, Public Works Department, Madras.

The Director of Public Instruction, Madras.

C. BOULNOIS,
Offg. Depy. Secy. to Govt. of India, Home Dept.

THE following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 14th April 1864, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XXVI OF 1864.

An Act to extend the jurisdiction of the Courts of Small Causes at Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, and to provide for the appointment of an increased number of Judges of those Courts.

WHEREAS it is expedient to increase the limit of the jurisdiction of the Courts of Small Causes held under Act IX of 1850 (for the more easy recovery of small debts and demands in Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay), and to increase the number of Judges of the said Courts; It is enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

I. The words "Local Government" and "High Court" as used in this Act shall bear respectively the same meaning as the words "Governor in Council" and "Supreme Court," as used in the said Act IX of 1850.

Interpretation.

II. The jurisdiction of the Courts held or to be held under the said Act IX of 1850 shall extend to the recovery of any debt, damage, or demand exceeding the sum of five hundred Rupees but not exceeding the sum of one thousand Rupees, and to all actions in respect thereof (except the several actions specified in the proviso in Section XXV of the same Act), provided that the cause of action shall have arisen or the defendant at the time of bringing the action shall dwell or carry on business or personally work for gain within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court.

The Small Cause Courts may take cognizance of suits for sums not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

III. If both parties shall agree by a Memorandum signed by them or by their Attorneys and filed with the Clerk of the Court of Small Causes, that the said Court shall have power to try any action (not included in the proviso in Section XXV of Act IX of 1850,) in which the debt or damage claimed or value of the property in dispute whether on balance of account or otherwise shall exceed the sum of one thousand Rupees, then and in such case the said Court shall have jurisdiction to try such action.

The Small Cause Court may take cognizance of suits for sums exceeding one thousand Rupees if the parties consent.

IV. The powers and provisions of Act VII of 1847 (to regulate distresses for small rents in Calcutta) shall be extended to the recovery of all arrears of rent not exceeding one thousand Rupees, and the Judges of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes under Act IX of 1850 shall be empowered to exercise within their jurisdiction the extended powers of the said Act VII of 1847 : and the said Act shall be construed as if, instead of Calcutta and the Settlement of Fort William in Bengal, the limits of the jurisdiction of the Court had been therein mentioned, and the Judges of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes under Act IX of 1850 instead of the Commissioners of the Court therein mentioned, and the amount of one thousand Rupees instead of one hundred Rupees, and the forms contained in the Schedule

Powers and provisions of Act VII of 1847 extended to recovery of arrears of rent not exceeding one thousand Rupees, and Calcutta Court of Small Causes empowered to exercise extended powers.

annexed to the said Act VII of 1847 shall be altered accordingly, and shall refer to Act IX of 1850 and to this Act instead of to Act VII of 1847.

Powers and provisions of Section XCI, Act IX of 1850 extended to cases not exceeding one thousand Rupees.

V. The powers and provisions of Section XCI of Act IX of 1850 are hereby extended so as to apply to the case of any person who shall hold or occupy any house, land, or tenement of which the value or the rent payable in respect thereof does not exceed the rate of one thousand Rupees by the year, and the said Section XCI of Act IX of 1850 shall be read as if the words "five hundred" were omitted, and the words "one thousand" substituted for them.

Powers and provisions of Act IX of 1850, and all rules, &c., made in pursuance thereof extended to debts, damages, and demands exceeding five hundred Rupees.

VI. The several powers and provisions of the said Act and all rules, orders, and regulations which have been or may be made in pursuance of the said Act, shall extend to all debts, damages, and demands which may be sued for in the said Courts exceeding the sum of five hundred Rupees, and to all proceedings and judgments for the recovery of the same, or otherwise in relation thereto respectively, as fully and effectually, to all intents and purposes, as the same respectively are now or may be applicable to debts, damages, and demands within the present jurisdiction of the said Courts.

In causes for an amount exceeding five hundred Rupees Judges shall reserve case for opinion of High Court when they have doubts themselves, or when either of the parties require them to do so.

VII. In any cause of an amount exceeding five hundred Rupees the Judges of the said Courts of Small Causes shall reserve any question of law or equity or any question as to the admission or rejection of any evidence as to which they shall entertain any doubts, or which they shall be requested by either party to the suit to reserve for the opinion of the High Court, and shall give judgment contingent upon the opinion of the said High Court on a case which they shall thereupon be entitled to state to the said Court. If only two Judges sit together and shall differ in opinion, the question on which they differ shall be so reserved.

Security to be given in certain cases when case is reserved.

VIII. When judgment is given contingent upon the opinion of the High Court, the party against whom such judgment is given shall, unless he be willing to submit to such judgment, forthwith give security, to be approved by the Clerk of the Court, for the costs of the reference to the High Court and for the amount of the judgment; provided, nevertheless, that such security, so far as regards the amount of the judgment, shall not be required in any case where the Judge of the Court of Small Causes who tried the suit shall have ordered the defendant to pay the amount of such judgment into the hands of the Clerk of the said Court and the same shall have been paid accordingly; and the said High Court may either order a new trial on such terms as it thinks fit, or may order judgment to be entered for either party as the case may be, and may make such order with respect to the costs of reserving the question and stating the same for their opinion and otherwise arising thereout or connected therewith as such High Court may think proper. And all orders made by the High Court under this Section shall be final.

Costs of sending up the case to be at the discretion of the High Court.

No costs in cases brought in the High Court when verdict is for less than one thousand Rupees unless Judge certifies, &c.

IX. If any action shall after the passing of this Act be commenced in the High Court for any cause other than those specified in Section C of Act IX of 1850, for which a summons might have been taken out from a Court held under the said Act IX of 1850 or under this Act, and in which such Court would have had jurisdiction, and if a verdict shall be found for the plaintiff for a sum less than one thousand Rupees if the said action is founded on contract, or less than three hundred Rupees if it is founded on wrong, the plaintiff shall have judgment to recover such sum only and no costs, and if a verdict shall not be found for the plaintiff, the defendant shall be entitled to his costs as between attorney and client, unless in either case the Judge who shall try the case shall certify that by reason of the difficulty, novelty, or general importance of the case, or of some erroneous course of decisions in like cases in the Court of Small Causes, the action was fit to be brought in the High Court.

In suit in High Court against Officer of Court, if no verdict for more than one thousand Rupees, no costs allowed unless Judge shall certify.

X. If any person shall bring any suit in the High Court in respect of any grievance committed by the Clerk, Bailiff, or Officer of any Court held under Act IX of 1850 or under this Act, or under color or pretence of the process of the said Court, and upon the trial of the action no greater damages shall be found for the plaintiff than the sum of one thousand Rupees, no cost shall be awarded to the plaintiff in such action unless the Judge shall certify in Court that the action was fit to be brought in the High Court.

Fees payable to the Courts of Small Causes in suits under this Act.

XI. There shall be payable in the Court of Small Causes at Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay respectively, in every cause of an amount to which jurisdiction is given to the said Court by this Act, the fees set forth in the Schedule hereto annexed, besides the sum of two annas in each Rupee of the amount sued for, so far as such amount does not exceed five hundred Rupees, and one anna in the Rupee so far as such amount exceeds five hundred Rupees, which fee shall be paid over to the same account as that to which the fees payable under Section XIX of Act XI of 1850 are paid over.

Government may appoint as many Judges as may be necessary.

XII. Whereas by Section VIII of the said Act IX of 1850 provision is made for the appointment of so many persons as may be necessary, not exceeding three, to be Judges of the said Courts of Small Causes respectively, it is hereby enacted that it shall be lawful for the local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General of India in Council, to appoint as many persons as may be necessary to be Judges of the said Courts respectively.

XIII. The fees to be taken by Barristers-at-Law and Attornies practising in the said Courts in cases brought within the jurisdiction given by this Act shall be as follows:—an Attorney shall be entitled to have or recover a sum not exceeding fifty-one Rupees for his fees and costs, and in no case shall any fee exceeding eighty-five Rupees be allowed for employing a Barrister as Counsel in the cause. The expense of employing Barrister or an Attorney, or both a Barrister and an Attorney, either by plaintiff or defendant, shall not be allowed as costs unless by order of the Judge, and the Judges of the said Court shall determine in what cases such expenses shall be so allowed.

One of the Judges appointed under Act IX of 1850 to be styled First Judge; and to arrange the distribution of business among the other Judges.

This Act to be read as part of Act IX. of 1850.

XVI. This Act and the said Act IX of 1850 shall be read and construed as one Act, as if the several provisions in the said Act contained, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, were repealed and re-enacted in this Act.

Directions.—In approaching Trincomalie Harbour from the southward, bring Foul Point Light to bear west, distant 2 miles; and then steer N. W. until Round Island Light bears W. S. On the 26th May the wind which had been blowing steadily from S. and by E. suddenly veered round at 12 H. 30 M. to N. W. blowing very strongly, and in heavy gusts, varying in pressure from 3 to 25 lbs. per square foot, till 2 H. 15 M. P. M, when it became calm, having veered during the interval by W. to S. W. About 3, H. 30 M. the wind again changed suddenly from S. W. to N. and by E. and subsequently to E. and by N. The gale was accompanied by a good deal of Thunder and Lightning and a little rain. The ten minutes Observations taken during the gale show that at noon the Barometer stood at 29·79 inches. At 12 H 30 M., the moment of the first sudden change of wind and commencement of gale, it rose to 29·83 inches, and then fell gradually and continuously to 29·738 inches at 5 P. M. At 8 P. M. it again rose to 29·832 inches.

Report on the trade and state of the Port of Chittagong for the year 1863-64.

From W. Gordon Young, Esq., Commissioner of the Chittagong Division, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 6, dated the 14th May 1864.)

I have the honor to forward, for the Lieutenant-Governor's perusal, copy of a recent Report* from the Conservator of the Port of Chittagong on the trade and state of the Port during the year ending on 30th ultimo.

* No. 4, dated 9th instant.

2. As the facts therein mentioned are likely to be of interest to many persons, and as they are at the same time little known, I trust that His Honor will be pleased to cause the Report to be published in the Gazette Supplement.

From H. J. Bamber, Esq., Collector of Customs and Conservator of the Port of Chittagong, to the Commissioner of the Chittagong Division,—(No. 4, dated the 9th May 1864.)

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 73 of the 7th ultimo, requesting a Report on the trade and state of the Port.

2. In my letter No. 127 of the 10th of June last I expressed an opinion that there would be a great increase to the number of European Vessels visiting the Port. Such has been the case; we have had altogether twenty-five arrivals of Vessels not belonging to the Port to thirteen during the previous year; of these sixteen were European Ships and nine belonging to other Ports in India.

3. The principal articles of export worth noting are Grain (Rice and Paddy) and Cotton. The quantity of Grain and Cotton shipped during the last three years is as follows:—

		Grain.
1861-62	...	16,21,090	Quarters.
1862-63	...	24,69,236	,,
1863-64	...	26,61,601	,,
		Cotton.
1861-62	...	430	Maunds.
1862-63	...	4,369	,,
1863-64	...	7,687	,,

4. During the year a much larger proportion than usual of the Grain has been shipped for external Ports Point de Galle, Colombo, Penang, and the Maldive Islands. About nineteen lacs of quarters have been taken to those Ports and about seven and a half lacs of quarters to Madras and other Home Ports. All the European Ships loaded for Ceylon.

5. The Cotton entered above was shipped on Country Brigs for Nariangunge; it only shews part of the Cotton exported, as during the months from December to March Cotton is shipped on Ballam Boats; no account of such shipments is kept at the Custom House.

6. The collections in the Customs Department have increased immensely; the gross receipts are as follows:—

	Imports.	Exports.	Total.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1861-62 ...	*23,046	29,126	52,172
1862-63 ...	9,547	54,627	64,174
1863-64 ...	8,108	82,144	90,252

The reason for this very great increase to the revenue is owing to the European Ships having all loaded for external or duty-paying Ports. It is not unlikely that from Ceylon some of the Grain may be carried to Cochin, Calicut, or Bombay, where the price of Grain is very high.

* This includes Rupees 14,363 duty on 4,555 maunds Jedda Salt; none imported in 1862-63; 15,610 maunds imported in 1863-64 all bonded, except 300 maunds which paid Rupees 975 duty.

7. I am unable to give the exact *price of Grain as it varied throughout the season, and depended upon the quantity brought and number of Vessels requiring it. The greater quantity of Rice is brought twice a month at certain ages of the moon. On one or two occasions the supply was immense, at others it ran short. Towards the close of the season Rice was taken from the Port because there was no profitable sale for it. The time agreed on by the chartering parties for loading was generally too short; a larger period would have secured cheaper cargoes.

8. The sum collected as Port dues during the year has also increased.

The collections for three years are given below:—

	Port.	Miscellanies.	Total.
1861-62 ...	8,935	1,161	10,096
1862-63 ...	12,515	1,185	13,700
1863-64 ...	12,995	984	13,979

The collections in this Department would have been larger owing to the influx of European Ships had not the class of Steamers used by the British India Steam Navigation Company for the Mails been of a very much smaller class of Vessel than was employed in 1862-63.

9. You will be pleased to hear that during the year we have been free from any kind of loss by accident, and that, notwithstanding almost all the Masters of the European Ships were strangers to the Port, they mentioned to me how easy of access the Port was and declared it to be quite as much so as any on the eastern coast of the Bay.

10. Owing to the increased number of European Vessels arriving I was obliged to appoint an extra Pilot with a boat, as the fixed Establishment was quite inadequate to meet the requirements of the Port.

11. Another important measure which I have carried out during the year has been to buoy off certain parts of the river which I found necessary now that Chittagong is visited by a much larger class of Vessel; six temporary buoys have been adopted, and will be re-placed with small Iron buoys as soon as I can obtain them.

12. It will also interest you to know that I made a partial survey of the river with the Captain of the Tartar, the largest of the Vessels which have visited the Port, to ascertain the depth of water on the shallowest parts of the river before mooring his Vessel. We found that the depth of water everywhere was greater than when the last survey was made.

13. Since then I have bi-monthly Reports made to me by the Pilots of the depth of water at each of the buoys, and a Register kept in the Office. I find from this Statement that the least depth at high water neaps is 24 feet.

14. During the year now commenced I have reason to believe that we shall have many more European Ships, as the expenses of the Port were so small and cargoes so easily obtained that the Port is becoming yearly more popular. All the Captains expressed a readiness to come again, and some of the Vessels have made a second voyage. At present we labor under this disadvantage that the Vessels have to come in ballast.

15. But this will not last long, for the Captains of some of the Vessels which have visited the Port consider that the small expenses* of the Port and the ease with which cargoes can be obtained will tempt Vessels to make direct voyages to Chittagong with Liverpool Salt. There can be no doubt that if Liverpool Salt can be sold in Calcutta at a profit a larger one will be obtained here where the expenses are less.

Report of the Calcutta Medical College Hospital for the year 1863.

From Dr. J. McClelland, Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 26, dated the 4th May 1864.)

In forwarding the Returns and Report of the Calcutta Medical College Hospital for 1863, I have the satisfaction, as on previous years, to notice the progressive increase in the number of Out-door as well as House Patients treated there during the last twelve months.

2. Considering the popularity which the Institution has justly gained in the estimation of the Natives, and the large number of persons who constantly present themselves for relief by Surgical operations, frequently of the severest character, it is most important that all causes which tend or prevent to impede recovery, in spite of the Surgeon's skill and the Nurse's cares, should, as far as possible, be removed.

3. The mortality from Surgical operations is still heavy, and though much has been done of late years to improve the general sanitary condition of the Hospital and its immediate neighbourhood, much still remains to be accomplished.

4. I would therefore recommend to the most favorable consideration of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal the proposals of Dr. Chevers :—

(a.) That the privy doorways be fitted with well-constructed self-closing spring doors.

(b.) That for the reasons stated in the correspondence the floor of the great Council Room Ward, in which most of the severest Surgical cases are lodged, be covered with asphalt, it being of the utmost importance that the floor of such an apartment be kept at all times absolutely clean.

(c.) That orders may be given for the removal of the privy on the south of the Hospital, the value of the materials being made over for other buildings elsewhere on the premises.

(d.) That the block of buildings to the south-west of the Hospital marked A. upon the Plan, and stated by Dr. Chevers to be a receptacle for filth of the worst descriptions, may be purchased by Government as early as possible, with a view to its removal.

5. I have called upon Dr. Chevers to ascertain and report what expenditure the first of these measures would involve, and will forward his letter as soon as it reaches this Office. The second and third proposals can cost but a trifling sum, and I trust His Honor will give his sanction to their being executed without delay.

6. It is to be regretted that, from various causes, it has been found impossible as yet to set apart rooms for Accident and Cholera Wards, as contemplated last year. Dr. Chevers, however, hopes now shortly to be able to arrange for these. They are much wanted, and I trust nothing will prevent their being ready on an early date for the reception of patients.

7. Dr. Chevers notices the difficulty of carrying on the duties of the Hospital with the present Establishment of Sweepers and Coolies on the existing rates of pay, and, considering the large increase in the number of inmates of the Hospital, as well as in the price of provisions of all descriptions, I trust His Honor will be prepared to view favorably the application which the Principal expresses an intention of making on this head.

8. He has striven successfully to reduce the expenditure in the matter of diets, and also in Europe medicines, with reference to the increased number of patients, and I have no doubt that some extra expense is absolutely required to place on a proper footing the useful and important Institution over which he presides.

From NORMAN CHEVERS, Esq., M. D., Principal, Medical College, to H. M. MACPHERSON, Esq., M. D., Secretary, Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department,—(No. 397, dated the 28th April 1864.)

I HAVE the honor to submit, for the information of the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, and of Government, the Returns of the Medical College Hospital for 1863. During the year under report 5,296 individuals were treated in the Medical, Surgical, and Midwifery Wards of this Institution as In-patients against 4,885 in 1862 and 4,423 in 1861, displaying a decidedly progressive increase.

1. Annual Return of Christian male and female patients.
2. Annual Return of Native male and female patients.
3. Annual Return of Surgical operations performed in the Hospital.
4. Annual Return of Midwifery cases treated in Lying-in Ward.
5. Annual Return of Diseases treated in the Out-door Dispensaries.
6. Annual Report of Operations performed in Out-door Dispensaries.
7. Table of admission and deaths in the Hospital for the year 1863.

Of the above 2,369 were Christians and 2,927 Natives of India, inclusive of 1,017 women and children treated in the Midwifery Wards under the charge of Drs. Wilson and Charles. My last Annual Report did not include the In-patients treated in the Eye Infirmary, these numbered 541 in 1862 and 545 in 1863, consequently the total number of In-patients treated in the Institution were 5,841 in 1863 against 5,384 in the preceding year.

Among the Christian In-patients 218 deaths occurred. This was 9·20 per cent to treated. Of the Native In-patients 784 died, or 26·78 per cent to treated :—

Percentage of deaths to treated.

	Europeans.	Natives.
1861 ...	10·05	26·01
1862 ...	9·69	28·33
1863 ...	9·20	26·78

It will be observed that the death rate among our Native patients is still painfully large, although by no means on the increase. The cause of this high rate (the admission of multitudes of positively moribund patients especially to the Physicians' Wards) has frequently been explained in previous Reports.

Among the 1,017 patients treated in the Midwifery Wards thirty-four deaths occurred during the year. The number of women confined in these Wards in 1863 was 201 against 169 in 1862 and 181 in 1861. It is, however, right to explain that these statistics include cases of abortion. These amounted in 1863 to sixty-two.

A total of 1,121 were relieved in the Dental Dispensary.

The Out-door Dispensary for women and children afforded relief during the year under report to 12,744 applicants against 10,187 in 1862, which will, I trust, be regarded as very satisfactory progress.

During the year 17,746 male patients received relief at the Medical and Surgical Out-door Dispensaries and 3,241 individuals were treated as Out-patients at the Eye Infirmary.

Consequently it will be perceived that a grand total of forty thousand one hundred and forty-eight individuals received medical aid in this Institution during the year under report..

The number of important Surgical operations performed upon In-door patients in 1863 was as follows, compared with those of the two preceding years :—

	Operations.	Recoveries.	Deaths.	Ratio of deaths.
1861 ...	130	103	15	11·53
1862 ...	198	152	35	17·69
1863 ...	175	116	28	16·0

Reference to the Return will shew that all of the cases in which death followed Surgical operation were of a very serious character and were primarily such as would, in any situation, be attended with more or less apprehension of the probability of fatal results.

Cases of Pyœmia, however, still continue to occur in this building, frustrating the utmost care of two of the most skilful and judicious Surgeons of the age. Most of these very disappointing cases are, I am confident, still due to the causes which I noticed in my last Report, viz., the faulty construction of the building and the evil quality of the stench-laden city atmosphere which pervades it. I am, however, strongly inclined to believe that both of these pernicious influences are susceptible of mitigation. With regard to the Hospital itself, I beg leave to suggest that the emanations from the Hospital privies would be rendered much less offensive than they are at present by fitting the privy doorways with well-constructed self-closing spring doors. Dr. Fayrer and Mr. Partridge are of opinion, and I perfectly coincide with them, that the great Council Room Ward, in which most of the severest Surgical cases are lodged, is now becoming unhealthy on account of the condition of its terrace-work floor, the very absorbent nature of which renders its perfect cleansing quite impossible. We, therefore, earnestly trust that Government will be pleased to sanction the expense needful for asphalting this important Ward.

During the past year the immediate neighbourhood of the Hospital has undergone very considerable improvement. Of late the Hospital drains have been very considerably improved. Upon my representations to the Executive Engineer, the very faulty levels of some have been corrected, and others which opened in a very offensive manner have been very advantageously led into a covered sewer. The space to the northward taken up by Government has now been thoroughly cleared of all the noisome buildings which encumbered it, with the exception of a small brick range on its north-east margin, which is still retained as servants' quarters.

Immediately I took charge here, I found that the air of the whole neighbourhood was impested by the exhalations from a perfectly open, wide, and deep cess-pool sewer which conveyed the privy filth of Neemo Khansamah's Lane along College Street immediately outside the Hospital railing to the south and east. Last year I succeeded, with some difficulty, in persuading the Municipal Authorities to divert this horrible stream into a covered underground sewer, which runs down the middle of College Street. The improvement which this has effected in the atmosphere of the whole neighbourhood must be appreciated by every one who can recollect the locality as one of the most offensive in Calcutta.

We have also very recently been able to initiate a great improvement by discontinuing the use of a very offensive privy for our Native servants which is most injudiciously placed directly to the south of the Hospital. I beg to solicit that immediate instructions may be given for the demolition of this building, and that the value of its bricks and other materials may be made over by the Executive Engineer to me that I may be enabled to add to the, at present, very inadequate accommodation of the Hospital Servants.

I hope to be able in a very short time to report a great improvement in the now most offensive Colootollah Street drain to the northward of the Hospital premises.

There is another most needful and, as I am convinced, easy alteration which would tend greatly to enhance the salubrity of the Hospital.

It has long been in contemplation of Government to take up and clear from the offensive buildings which now crowd it the whole space between the south Hospital compound and Neemo Khansamah's Lane. Bordering the south-west corner of our premises is a small block of buildings marked A. in the accompanying Plan. It consists of a small lower-roomed pucka building, half buried in sewer filth, and of about six tiled huts Bordering this block is a very deep and wide, and excessively offensive kutcha drain, the only real use of which is to receive the privy filth of the neighbouring houses. In course of years this channel has, by frequent excavation, become so much deeper than the neighbouring drains that it serves as a sink for the whole neighbourhood and poisons every breeze which reaches the Hospital from the south-west. Its direction is shewn by a blue line edging the block A. It will be seen that it runs immediately opposite to the west wing of the Hospital. Should it be the pleasure of Government immediately to purchase the space in question this grievous nuisance and source of disease may be at once abolished.

The fact that, owing to circumstances which were nearly unavoidable, we have not yet succeeded in providing the Hospital with Accident and Cholera Wards has caused me great disappointment. It was at first to be feared that no arrangement could be adopted for placing the Dispensary upon the ground floor, and it also became needful that the Executive Engineer should provide a new Plan of the Hospital. Recently Mr. Macnamara has relieved us of our difficulty by consenting to give up his Receiving Room. The Executive Engineer has again examined the premises, and has promised to furnish the estimate for the whole of the needful alterations at an early date.

By a system of strictly maintained economy we have been enabled to reduce the Hospital expenditure rather considerably; and shortly after the expiration of the year under report I had the satisfaction of representing (in this Office letter No. 321, dated the 29th February,) that the debt for diet, &c., which had long embarrassed us, had been liquidated. This fact affords me fair reason to anticipate that, at no very distant period, our expenses will admit of steady reduction; still, for a considerable time to come, some fluctuation in our monthly outlay must be anticipated, especially while the prices of certain of our chief articles of consumption, such as bread and cotton cloth, are extremely high.

My best efforts shall continue to be devoted to controlling the Hospital expenses to the utmost extent compatible with due and needful liberality.

It, however, now becomes necessary that I should represent that I shall shortly be under the necessity of soliciting an additional allowance for Hospital Establishment.

In all Hospitals whose Establishments are provided by the Commissariat, Hospital Coolies and Sweepers receive respectively Rupees 5 per mensem, whereas our Coolies receive only Rupees 4 and our Sweepers Rupees 4-8. With us these servants are very severely worked, and since the above low rates of pay were fixed at the opening of the Hospital in 1853 the demand for able-bodied labor has been much increased and the prices of provisions have risen greatly. Further, on the occupation of the Council Room as a Sick Ward, no additional Establishment of servants having been entertained, great additional labor was thrown upon nearly all. The result is that I have had a constant struggle to carry on the work of the Hospital with underpaid, overworked, and often discontented servants. I long since alluded strongly to my difficulties in this respect,* but, having to make many calls for additional outlay, I have been anxious to carry on as long as possible, resorting to every expedient, (such, for example, as entertaining servants at places several hundred miles from Calcutta), but I now perceive that, when the Cholera and Accident Wards are opened, I shall be under the necessity of sending in an estimate for a larger and more adequately paid Hospital Establishment.

* In this Office letter, to your address, No. 216, dated 1st December 1862.

The remarkable ability and energy of Mr. Bowser, the Purveyor, have been particularly displayed in the management of our very inadequate Establishment, and there have been many occasions on which, had it not been for the exercise of his excellent management, the Hospital servants would almost inevitably have failed to carry on our work.

The work of the Nurses provided by the Ladies' Hospital Nursing Committee has been upon the whole most satisfactory throughout the year. The benefit conferred upon the suffering sick by the attendance of this exemplary body of women cannot well be estimated too highly.

The new system for dispensing medicines, which was introduced last year, has hitherto worked remarkably well, although considerable difficulty has been experienced in obtaining the services of proper men as dispensers, and in training and disciplining those entertained.

It certainly appears unquestionable that the compounding, distribution, and administration of medicines in a great Hospital like this can only be entrusted with safety to men whose business and responsibility it is to perform these duties with accuracy and punctuality.

Nothing could possibly have been more unsafe than the old practice of confiding these duties to half taught and irresponsible students.

I take this opportunity of submitting Mr. Macnamara's Annual Report of the Eye Infirmary. His suggestion regarding the probable feasibility of building an Infirmary for the treatment of diseases of the eye and ear by public subscription is, in my humble opinion, well deserving of attention.

Medical College,
The 1st January 1864.

Charles Hayes,
House Surgeon, Medical College Hospital.

Norman Chevers, M. D.,
Principal, Medical College.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in the Medical Department, No. 2526, under date the 1st June 1864.

Read a letter from the Officiating Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department, No. 26, dated 4th ultimo, submitting the Annual Report and Returns of the Medical College Hospital for the year 1863.

Resolution.—The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that the admissions into the various wards of the Hospital continue to increase, the total number of In-patients treated in the Institution this year being 5,841 against 5,384 shewn in the last year's Statements. The increase in the number of applicants for relief to the Out-door Dispensary for women and children is still more noticeable, the number this year being 12,744 against 10,137 in 1862.

2. The great utility of the Institution is at once apprehended when it is seen that a grand total of 40,148 individuals altogether received medical aid in its different Departments during the year.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with regret that the percentage of deaths to cases treated is still painfully large, more especially among the Native patients. This is stated to be partially due to the admission of moribund cases mainly in the Physicians' wards. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, observes that it has recently been made a cause of complaint on the part of the Police Hospital Authorities that moribund cases are frequently sent to them from the Medical College Hospital. It is certainly desirable that the question of the reception of such cases should be definitely settled and that some distinct provision should be made for them, and the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, is accordingly requested to favor the Lieutenant-Governor with his views on the subject.

4. The proportion of deaths in important surgical operation is still heavy, and the Principal of the Medical College is no doubt correct in attributing this discouraging results to sanitary causes, such as the faulty construction of the building and the pollution of the atmosphere from the proximity of the College privies and public sewers.

The suggestions offered by the Principal with a view to remedy these defects are—

1*st.*—That well-constructed self-closing spring doors be fitted to the privies.

2*nd.*—That the terrace floor of the great Council Room Ward, in which most of the important surgical operations are performed, be covered with asphalt, as from the absorptive nature of its present materials the floor cannot be kept properly clean.

3*rd.*—That the privy to the south of the Hospital be removed and the materials be made use of elsewhere.

To all these proposals the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to accede, and the Department Public Works will be instructed to take the necessary steps for carrying them out.

6. Dr. Chevers also urges that the block of buildings to the south-west of the Hospital be purchased at once with a view to abating the nuisance caused by the unwholesome and offensive drain which borders them.

On this subject the Lieutenant-Governor has already been in communication with the Government of India, and orders on the subject will be communicated from the Public Works Department.

7. It is a matter of regret to the Lieutenant-Governor that there has been so much delay in carrying out the very needful reform of providing for a Casualty Ward and a Cholera Ward, more especially as the proposal received the approval of this Goverment in the Resolution recorded on last year's Report (paragraph 5). His Honor observes that subsequent to the date of the Annual Report for this year a Plan and Estimate for carrying out this proposal at the expense of Rupees 2,240 has been forwarded.* The Estimate has been transferred to be dealt with in the Public Works Department, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that no further time may be lost in supplying these great and important deficiencies.

* Vide letter from Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, No. 23, dated 6th May 1864, with two enclosures.

8. In reference to Dr. Chevers' suggestion for an increased scale of Establishment, the Lieutenant-Governor awaits a separate Report with the usual Proposition Statement.

9. It is with pleasure that the Lieutenant-Governor notices Dr. Chevers' testimony to the continued usefulness of the Nurses provided by the Ladies' Hospital Nursing Committee.

10. In conclusion the Lieutenant-Governor desires to record his acknowledgment of the continued sedulous attention paid by the Principal, Dr. Chevers, to the management of the Hospital, and to the care and welfare of its inmates, and of the diligent performance of their duties by the several Officers of the Hospital. His Honor notices the favorable mention made by Dr. Chevers of Mr. Bowser, the Purveyor.

Ordered, that a copy of the above Resolution be forwarded to the Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, for information and guidance.

Ordered also, that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Public Works Department of the Government of Bengal for information, and that the Report and Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette.

1*st.*—Holders of old Shares will be entitled to claim new Shares at par, in the proportion of one Share for every Share of which they may be registered as Proprietors in the Books of the Bank. Registered Proprietors of consolidated Stock will, in like manner, be entitled to an equivalent amount of new Stock at par.

2*nd.*—Holders of Shares or Stock, whether in India or elsewhere, shall be allowed to the 15th day of August 1864 to claim the new issue. 3*rd.*—Payments in one sum of the amount of Subscription on any whole, half, or quarter Share or Stock, to which any Proprietor may be entitled under this Notification, may be made at any time after the publication thereof. On all such payments, prior to the 30th June next, interest will be allowed, at the rate of 8 per Cent. per annum, from date of payment to the 30th June; and the Shares or Stock so paid up shall, thenceforward, be entitled to dividend. On all payments, made subsequent to the 30th June, interest will similarly be allowed (at the rate of 8 per Cent.) until the 31st December following, from which date the Shares or Stock so paid up shall, in like manner, become entitled to dividend.

4*th.*—The transfer Books will be closed from the 16th to the 31st of August 1864 inclusive. Annual Report of the Calcutta Eye Infirmary for the year 1863.

From DR. J. MCCLELLAND, Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 24, dated the 6th May 1864.)

I HAVE the honor, herewith, to transmit the Annual Return and Report of the Calcutta Eye Infirmary for 1863, from which His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal will perceive that a larger number of persons applied for relief during the past year than in any previous twelve-monthly period.

2. The Returns further show that a very satisfactory degree of success continued to attend the operations performed, though less than Dr. Archer, owing evidently to some miscalculation, had reckoned it at the preceding season; and I have no doubt that in the hands of Dr. Macnamara the Institution will fully maintain the high character it has already acquired.

3. It would be a great matter if the wealthy Native gentlemen of Calcutta could be induced to subscribe money for the erection of a suitable building in connection with the College Hospital for the reception of persons suffering from diseases of the eye and ear, and Dr. Macnamra's proposal will, I doubt not, receive the full consideration of the Lieutenant-Governor.

4. Should the scheme be found impracticable, I trust that the Government will, with reference to the representations already offered, itself be induced to take steps to secure improved accommodation for the Eye Infirmary.

From DR. N. C. MACNAMARA, Officiating Superintendent of the Calcutta Eye Infirmary, to DR. N. CHEVERS, Principal of the Medical College,—(dated the 15th April 1864.)

I HAVE the honor to submit, in accordance with the orders contained in Chapter 37 of the Medical Code, an Annual Return, in triplicate, of the Calcutta Eye Infirmary for transmission to the Principal Inspector-General of Hospitals, the Government, and the Council of the Secretary of State for India.

From the enclosed Returns it appears that the total number of Patients under treatment during the past year has amounted to 3,786, of these 2,822 have been cured, and 818 relieved. Of the above number 545 individuals were treated as in-Patients, and the remainder as out-Patients, thus showing an increase of sixty-one patients in excess of the number treated in any previous year, and indicating a steady augmentation in the attendance of patients at this Hospital throughout the past ten years, as exhibited in the Table marked A. appended to this Report.

I beg to enclose an abstract of the cases of extraction which have occurred during the past year, and also a similar Return for the year 1862-63, as I cannot help thinking that there has been an error in the results for that year, the number of recoveries having been stated to amount to 83 per cent., but by my calculation they do not exceed 42 per cent. I have copied out the remarks from the Hospital Case Book made at the time of the patient's discharge, and I think you will agree with me that the inferences I have drawn from them are such as may fairly be deduced. It is a matter of great importance if mistakes of this kind have been made that they should be corrected if possible, as false data are very likely to mislead other Surgeons and are most detrimental to the advancement of science. I notice also, with reference to the last Annual Report, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal remarks " the marked success of (this operation of extraction), which is a new feature in the history of Ophthalmic Surgery in this country," does Dr. Archer very just credit, no doubt it does, but the success attending extraction of the lens in cases of cataract is hardly a new feature in the history of Surgery in this country since I published an article on the subject in the Indian Annals in June 1861, showing the favorable results which had attended my practice in a series of one hundred cases of extraction operated on by me in India.

Within the last few years it appears the sphere of action of the department under my charge has become gradually enlarged, and it is now as much an Ear as an Eye Hospital; no doubt there are advantages to be derived from a division of labour of this kind, as it is almost impossible for the Surgeons of a large General Hospital to devote their time to specialities among the out-Patients such as the treatment of eye and ear cases demand. I find, however, that the latter class of cases have not been entered with the other patients attending the Hospital; this appears to me to be a mistake, and I have therefore directed the names and diseases of all patients treated in this Hospital to be returned accordingly.

With regard to the present accommodation afforded us in the Medical College, I believe it is admitted by every one to be utterly unfit for the purposes of an Ophthalmic Hospital, and in the last Annual Report it appears that you and the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, endorse Dr. Archer's statement that the wards are "mere cellars beneath the Hospital without proper ventilation, drainage, or light." I may add further that I find it impossible at times to perform some of the most delicate operations on the eye from want of proper light. Such being the case, it appears a very natural question to ask how may this lamentable state of things be remedied? It has been decided that there is no accommodation to be found either for wards or an operating theatre in the present building, and we must consequently therefore seek for it elsewhere.

I do not think we can expect the Government to help us at present; in no other country in the world would they be called on to supply a want of this kind; from the dawn of civilization in Europe up to the present day the impulse of men's minds has been to provide Hospitals for the poor, and thus throughout our own country we meet with an innumerable number of Institutions of the kind founded and supported by the rich and noble of the land. The Medical College and Chandney Hospitals are proofs of the same spirit in a very minute degree existing among the opulent Native gentry of this City, and I believe if some of the leading Members of Society would take the matter in hand, we should soon be able to collect funds for an Ophthalmic Hospital.

In England, however, you must be well aware, it is found necessary, before commencing an undertaking of the kind, to prevail upon a Prince or a Duke to become the Patron of the charity and on the Committee will be found the names of one or more Bishops and a few Lords. The same principle must be carried out with regard to the matter under consideration if we would hope for success; names, however, are by no means the only things necessary, there must be an earnestness of spirit among some of the promoters of the charity if it is to flourish, and as it is well known that the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal does take a great interest in the people of this Province, I would beg to suggest that His Honor be solicited to become the Patron, and a Committee of two or three Government Officials and some of the leading Native gentry of Calcutta be formed for the purpose of raising subscription and taking such other means as may be necessary to erect an Ophthalmic Hospital. The Native community should be led to understand that the charity is for the benefit of their own countrymen. There can be no difference of opinion as to the importance of the work; the benefits arising to the blind of restoration to sight, or to the deaf to the power of hearing, must be evident to all. I may be over sanguine; but I believe, if the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal will kindly give us his hearty support and co-operation in this work, that we shall very soon see an Ophthalmic Hospital erected in Calcutta worthy of the place, and which will be the means of conferring a lasting blessing upon thousands of poor creatures.

In case the above plan should not meet with the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor, I would suggest that a new Museum should be built and the Old Medical College Hospital now used as an Anatomical Museum should be converted into Ophthalmic Wards: this might probably be effected at a much less cost than building a new Hospital, nevertheless the Government would be obliged to find the funds, and they might not be disposed to do so at present; in the meantime our poor Ophthalmic patients are condemned to be confined in these ill-ventilated cellars as they have aptly been called, and every day's experience confirms me in the opinion of the urgent necessity that exists for good and airy Ophthalmic Wards. Nothing could be worse than the present arrangements.

CALCUTTA,
The 1st April 1864.

N. C. MACNAMARA,
Offg. Supdt. of the Eye Infirmary.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Lieutenant-Governor, in the Medical Department, No. 2513, under date the 2nd June 1864.

READ a letter from the Officiating Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department, No. 24, dated 6th ultimo, forwarding the Annual Report and Returns of the Calcutta Eye Infirmary for the year 1863.

RESOLUTION.—The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction the number of patients who continue to apply for relief to the Eye Infirmary, the Statements showing an increase this year both in the in-door and out-door patients over the Returns exhibited for last year.

	1862-63	1863-64	Increase.
In-door ..	541	584	43
Out-door .	3,184	3,405	221
Total ..	3,725	3,989	264

2. Out of the total number treated during the year (which the Lieutenant-Governor observes is 3,786, or 203 less than the total number of admissions) 2,822 have been returned as cured and 818 relieved.

3. Of the operations for cataract, a percentage of 53·01 have resulted in cure, while in addition to this, twenty-one, or one-fourth of the whole number, have obtained relief from the operation.

4. It now appears that there was a very important error in the calculation which Dr. Archer made last year of the percentage of cures to operations. He gave a percentage of eighty-three cures as the result of his operations for that year; but it appears that out of a total of seventy-six operations twenty-six were entered in the Hospital Book as "no better," and eighteen as "relieved," leaving only thirty-three cures, or a percentage of 12·8 cures on the whole number of operations. The percentage of eighty-three cures appeared to the Lieutenant-Governor such a remarkable success, that in the Resolution on last year's Report he noticed it as "a new feature in the history of Opthalmic Surgery in this country," and had the entry been accurate the novelty of such success would have been indisputable.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor fully concurs in Dr. Macnamara's remarks regarding the necessity of entering in the books all patients whether coming for the treatment of eye diseases or of those of the ear.

6. With regard to the remarks of Dr. Macnamara and of the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, on the unsuitableness of the present apartments for the purposes of an Eye Infirmary, the Lieutenant-Governor takes this opportunity to acquaint the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, with the orders* passed on the previous reference. It will be seen that the correspondence was forwarded to the Public Works Department of this Government with a view to the construction of a new Operating Theatre and Reception Room in the new Presidency College.

* No. 14[illegible] dated 27nd March [illegible] Public Works Department.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor desires that the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, will report if, in addition to this, any immediate change in the Hospital Wards is either necessary or expedient. That a building, as suggested by Dr. Macnamara, should be erected from funds raised by subscription, is most desirable, and such a plan would have His Honor's warmest concurrence, but it is not the part of the Government to take the initiative in setting such a subscription on foot.

ORDERED, that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, for information and guidance.

Ordered further, that the Report, with this above Resolution, be published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette.
